

Basics of agile

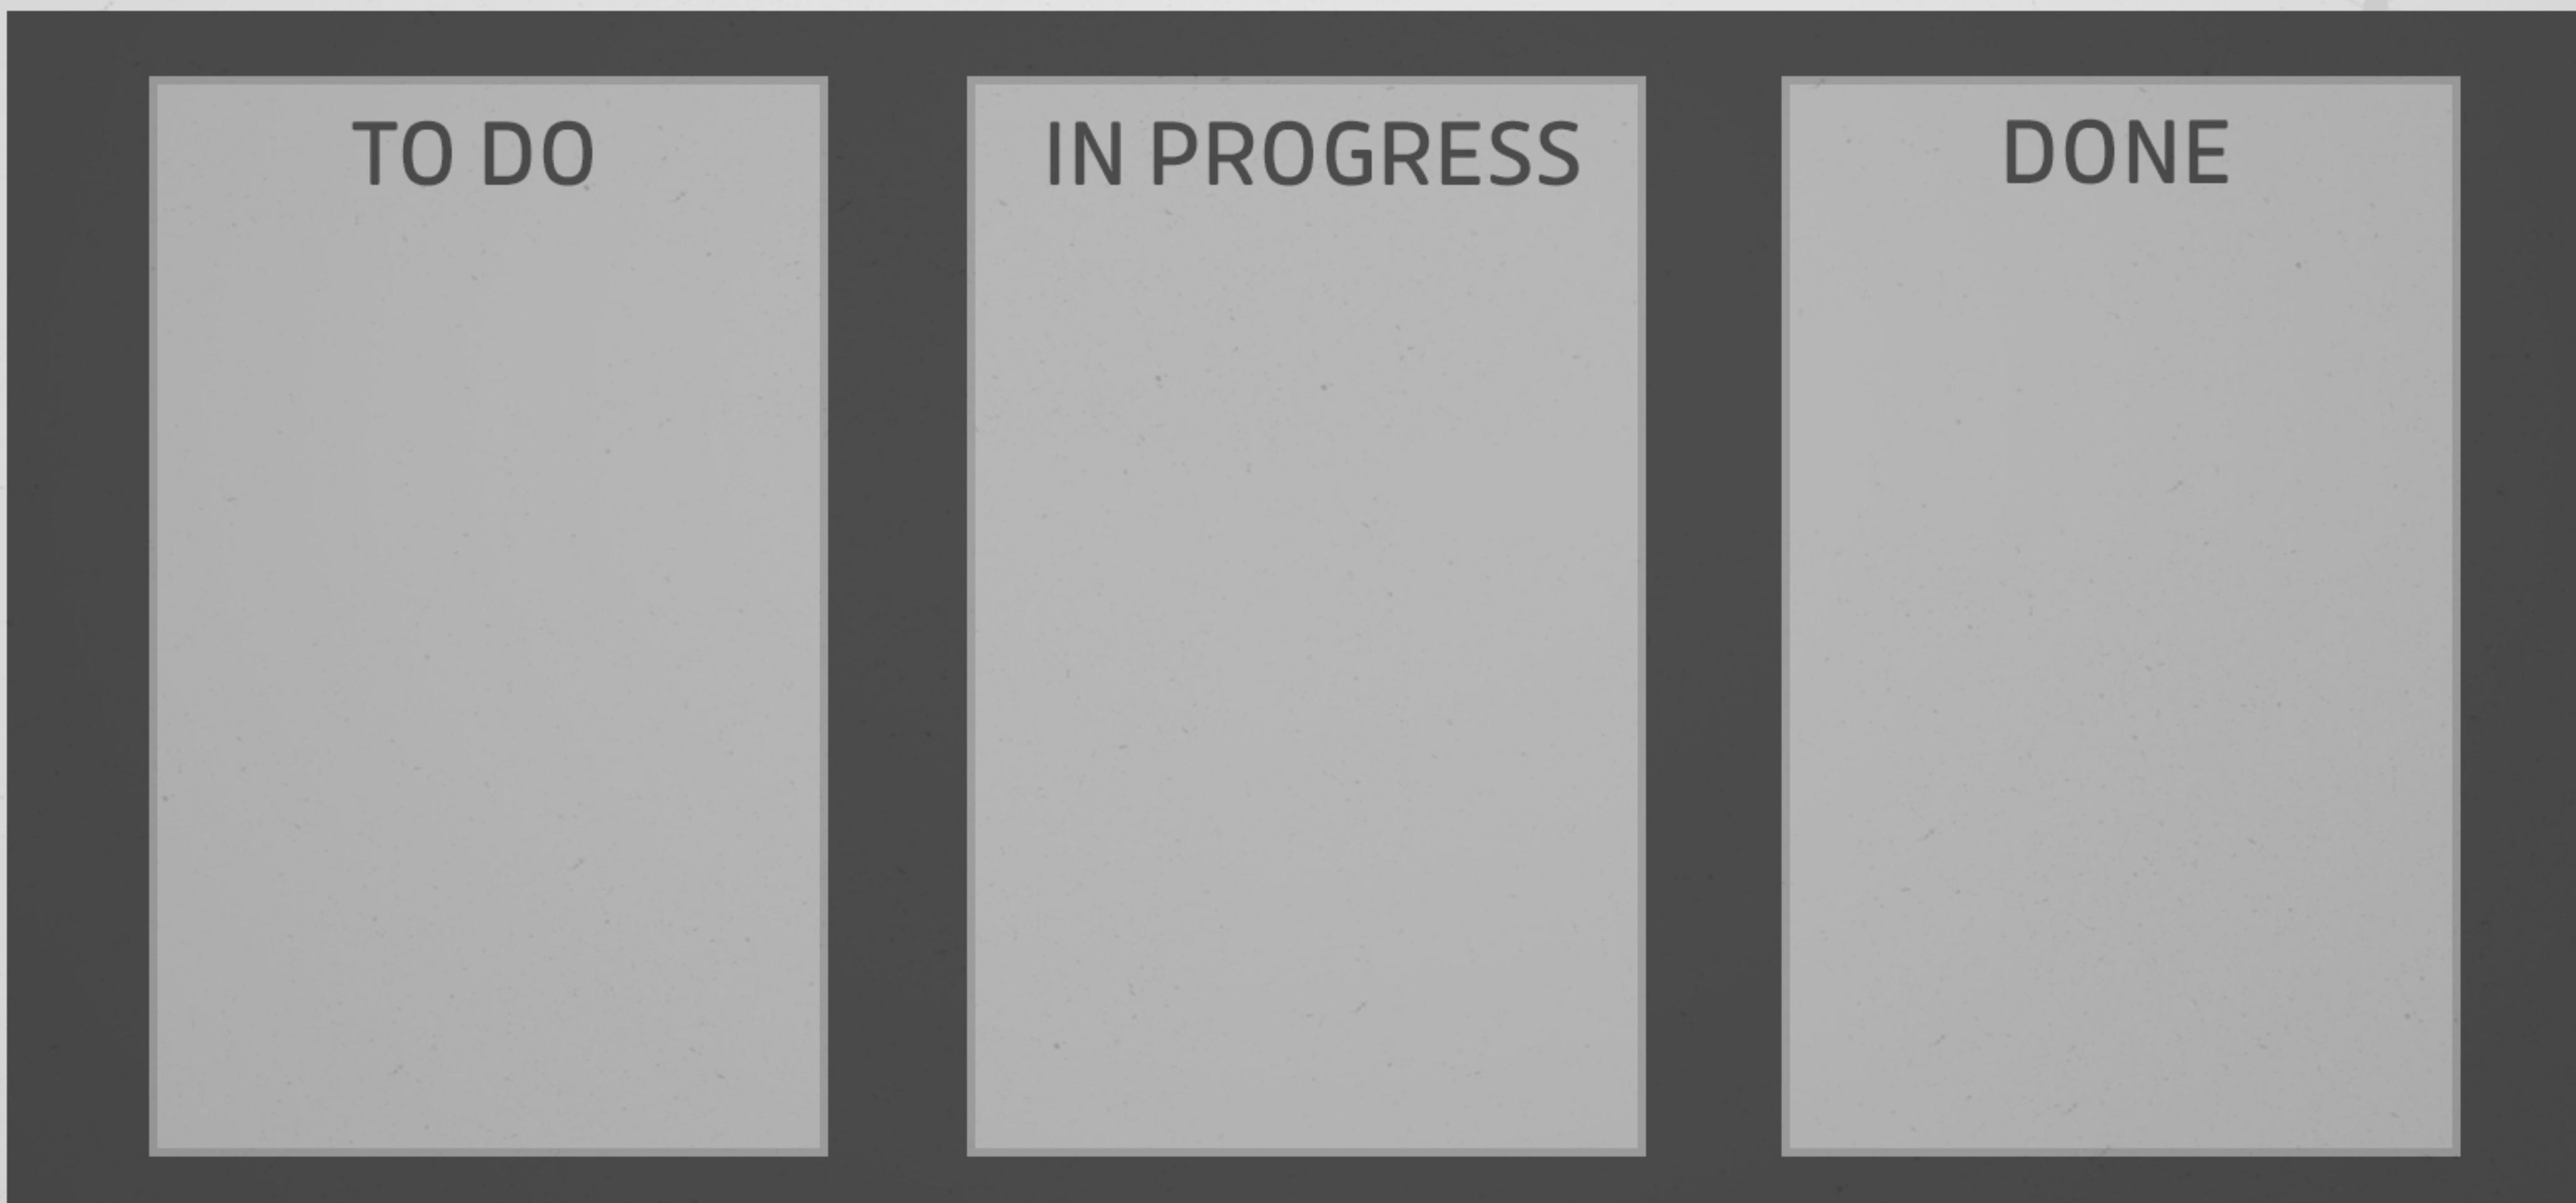

Agile

Agile is a software development methodology that is centered around helping teams get more stuff done by self-organizing their work.

Agile is ever-evolving and changing. It's about constantly improving as a team.

What is an agile board?

Example agile board

Agile

Scrum

Kanban

Key difference:

Scrum has sprints.
Kanban does not.

What's a sprint?

Sprint

A sprint is a pre-determined amount of time where teams determine the work to get done.

Sprint example

Sprint example

- Our team decided on a two week sprint

Sprint example

- Our team decided on a two week sprint
- Every two weeks, our team holds a sprint meeting

Sprint meeting example

- Start by discussing last sprint
- What went well?
- What didn't go well?
- What can we do better next sprint?
- Discuss and agree on the work to be completed in the next sprint

Sprint workflow example

Sprint workflow example

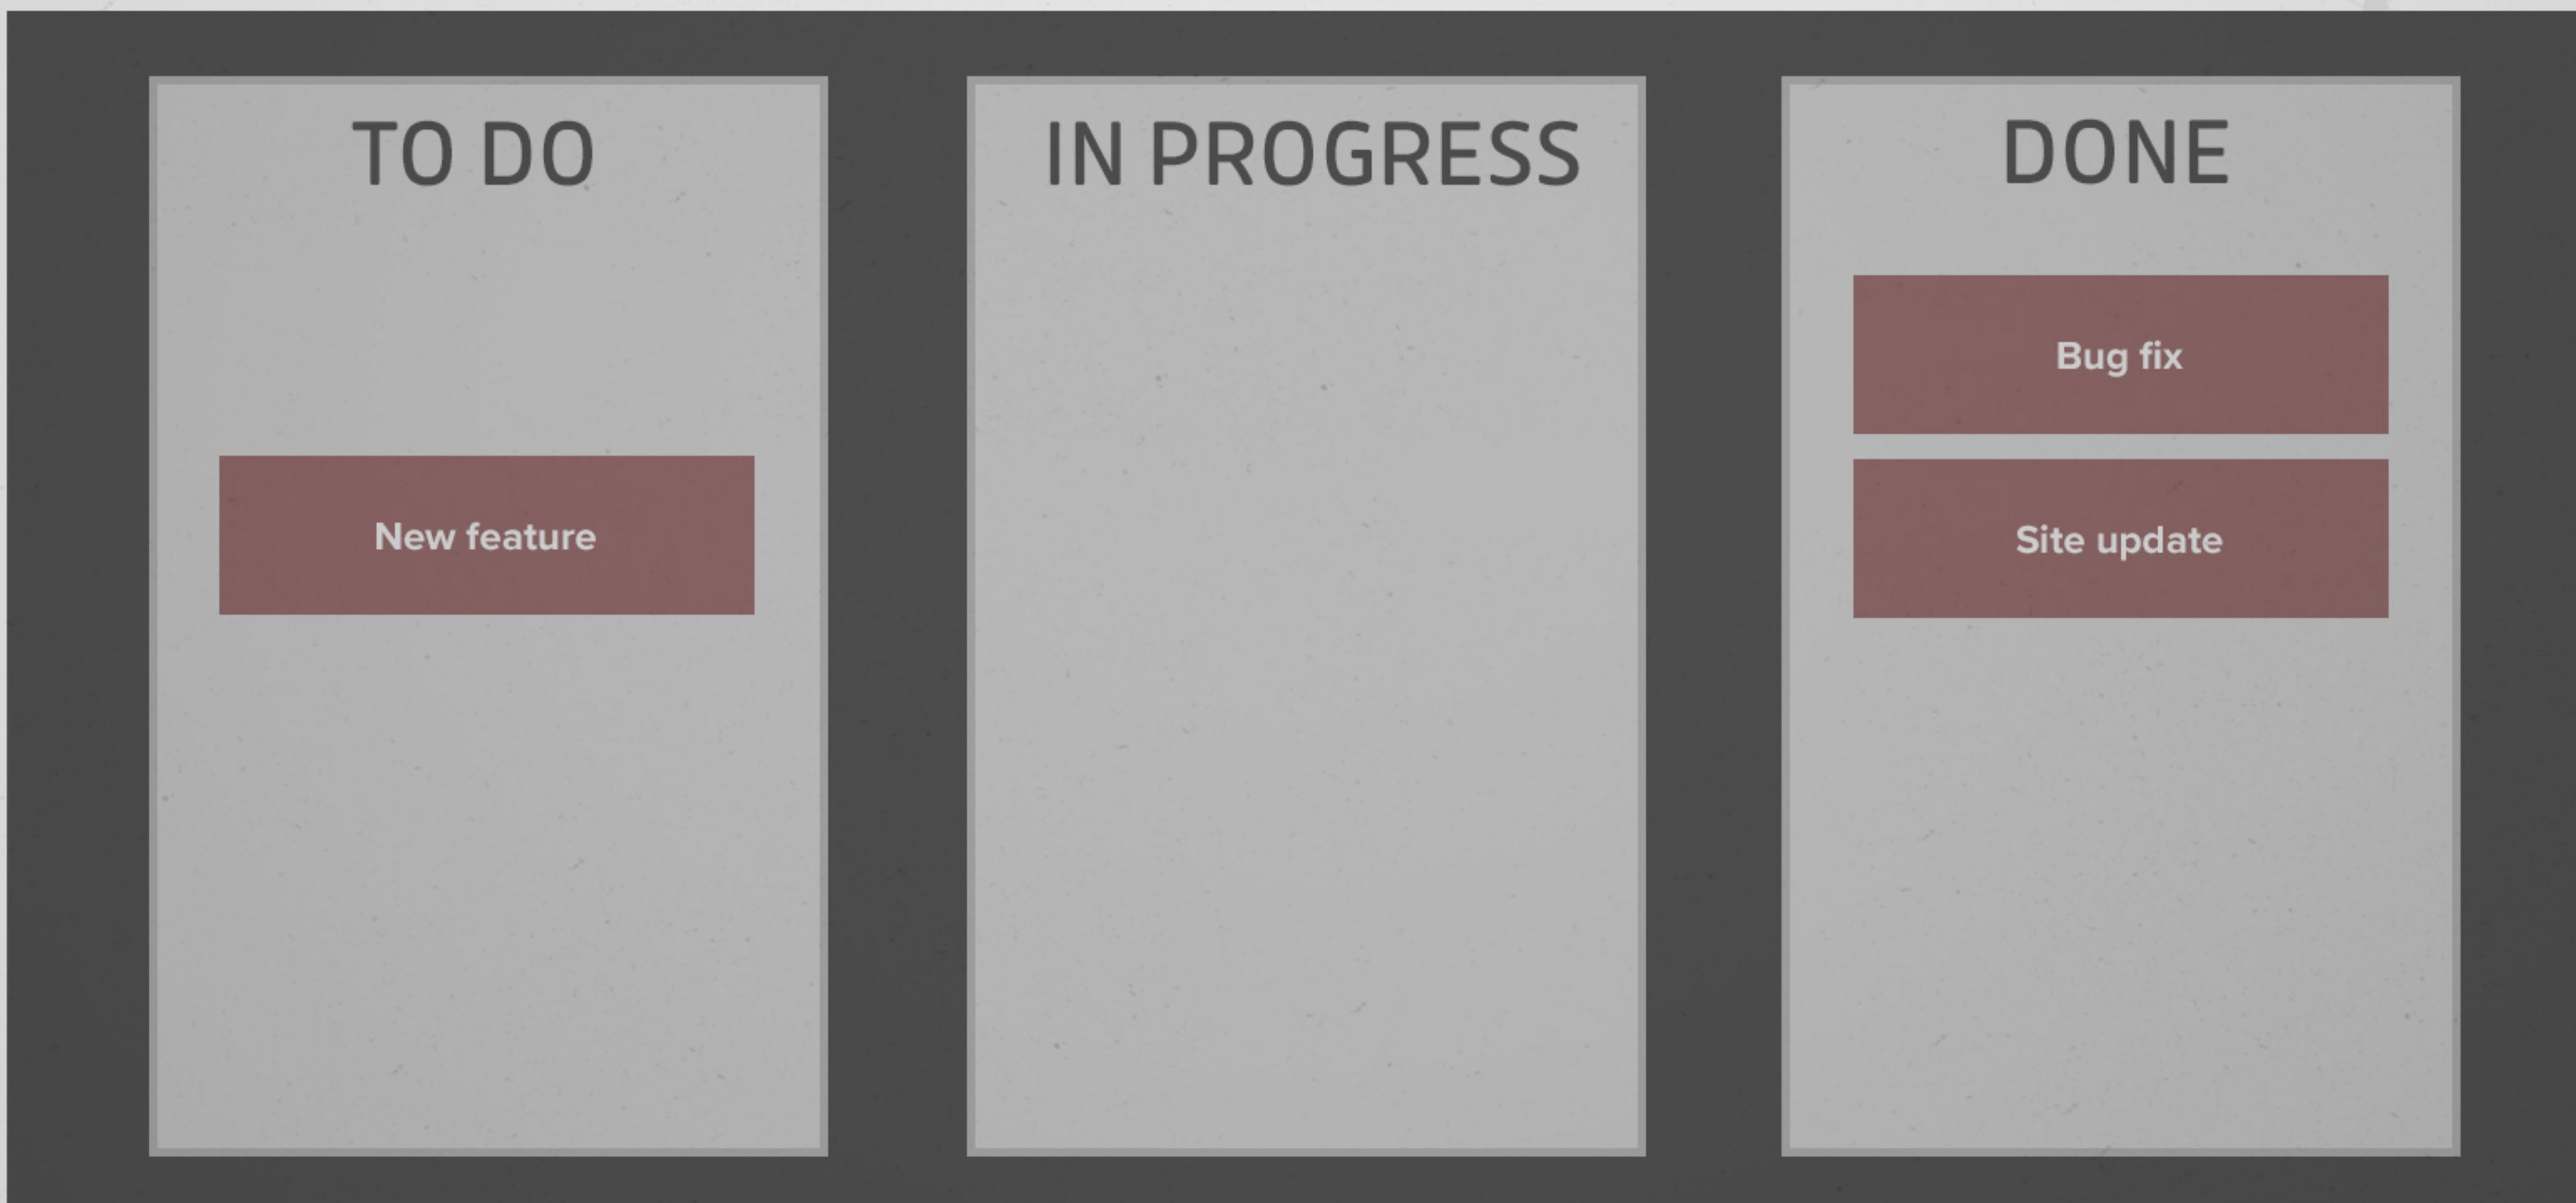

Sprint workflow example

Sprint workflow example

Sprint workflow example

Sprint workflow example

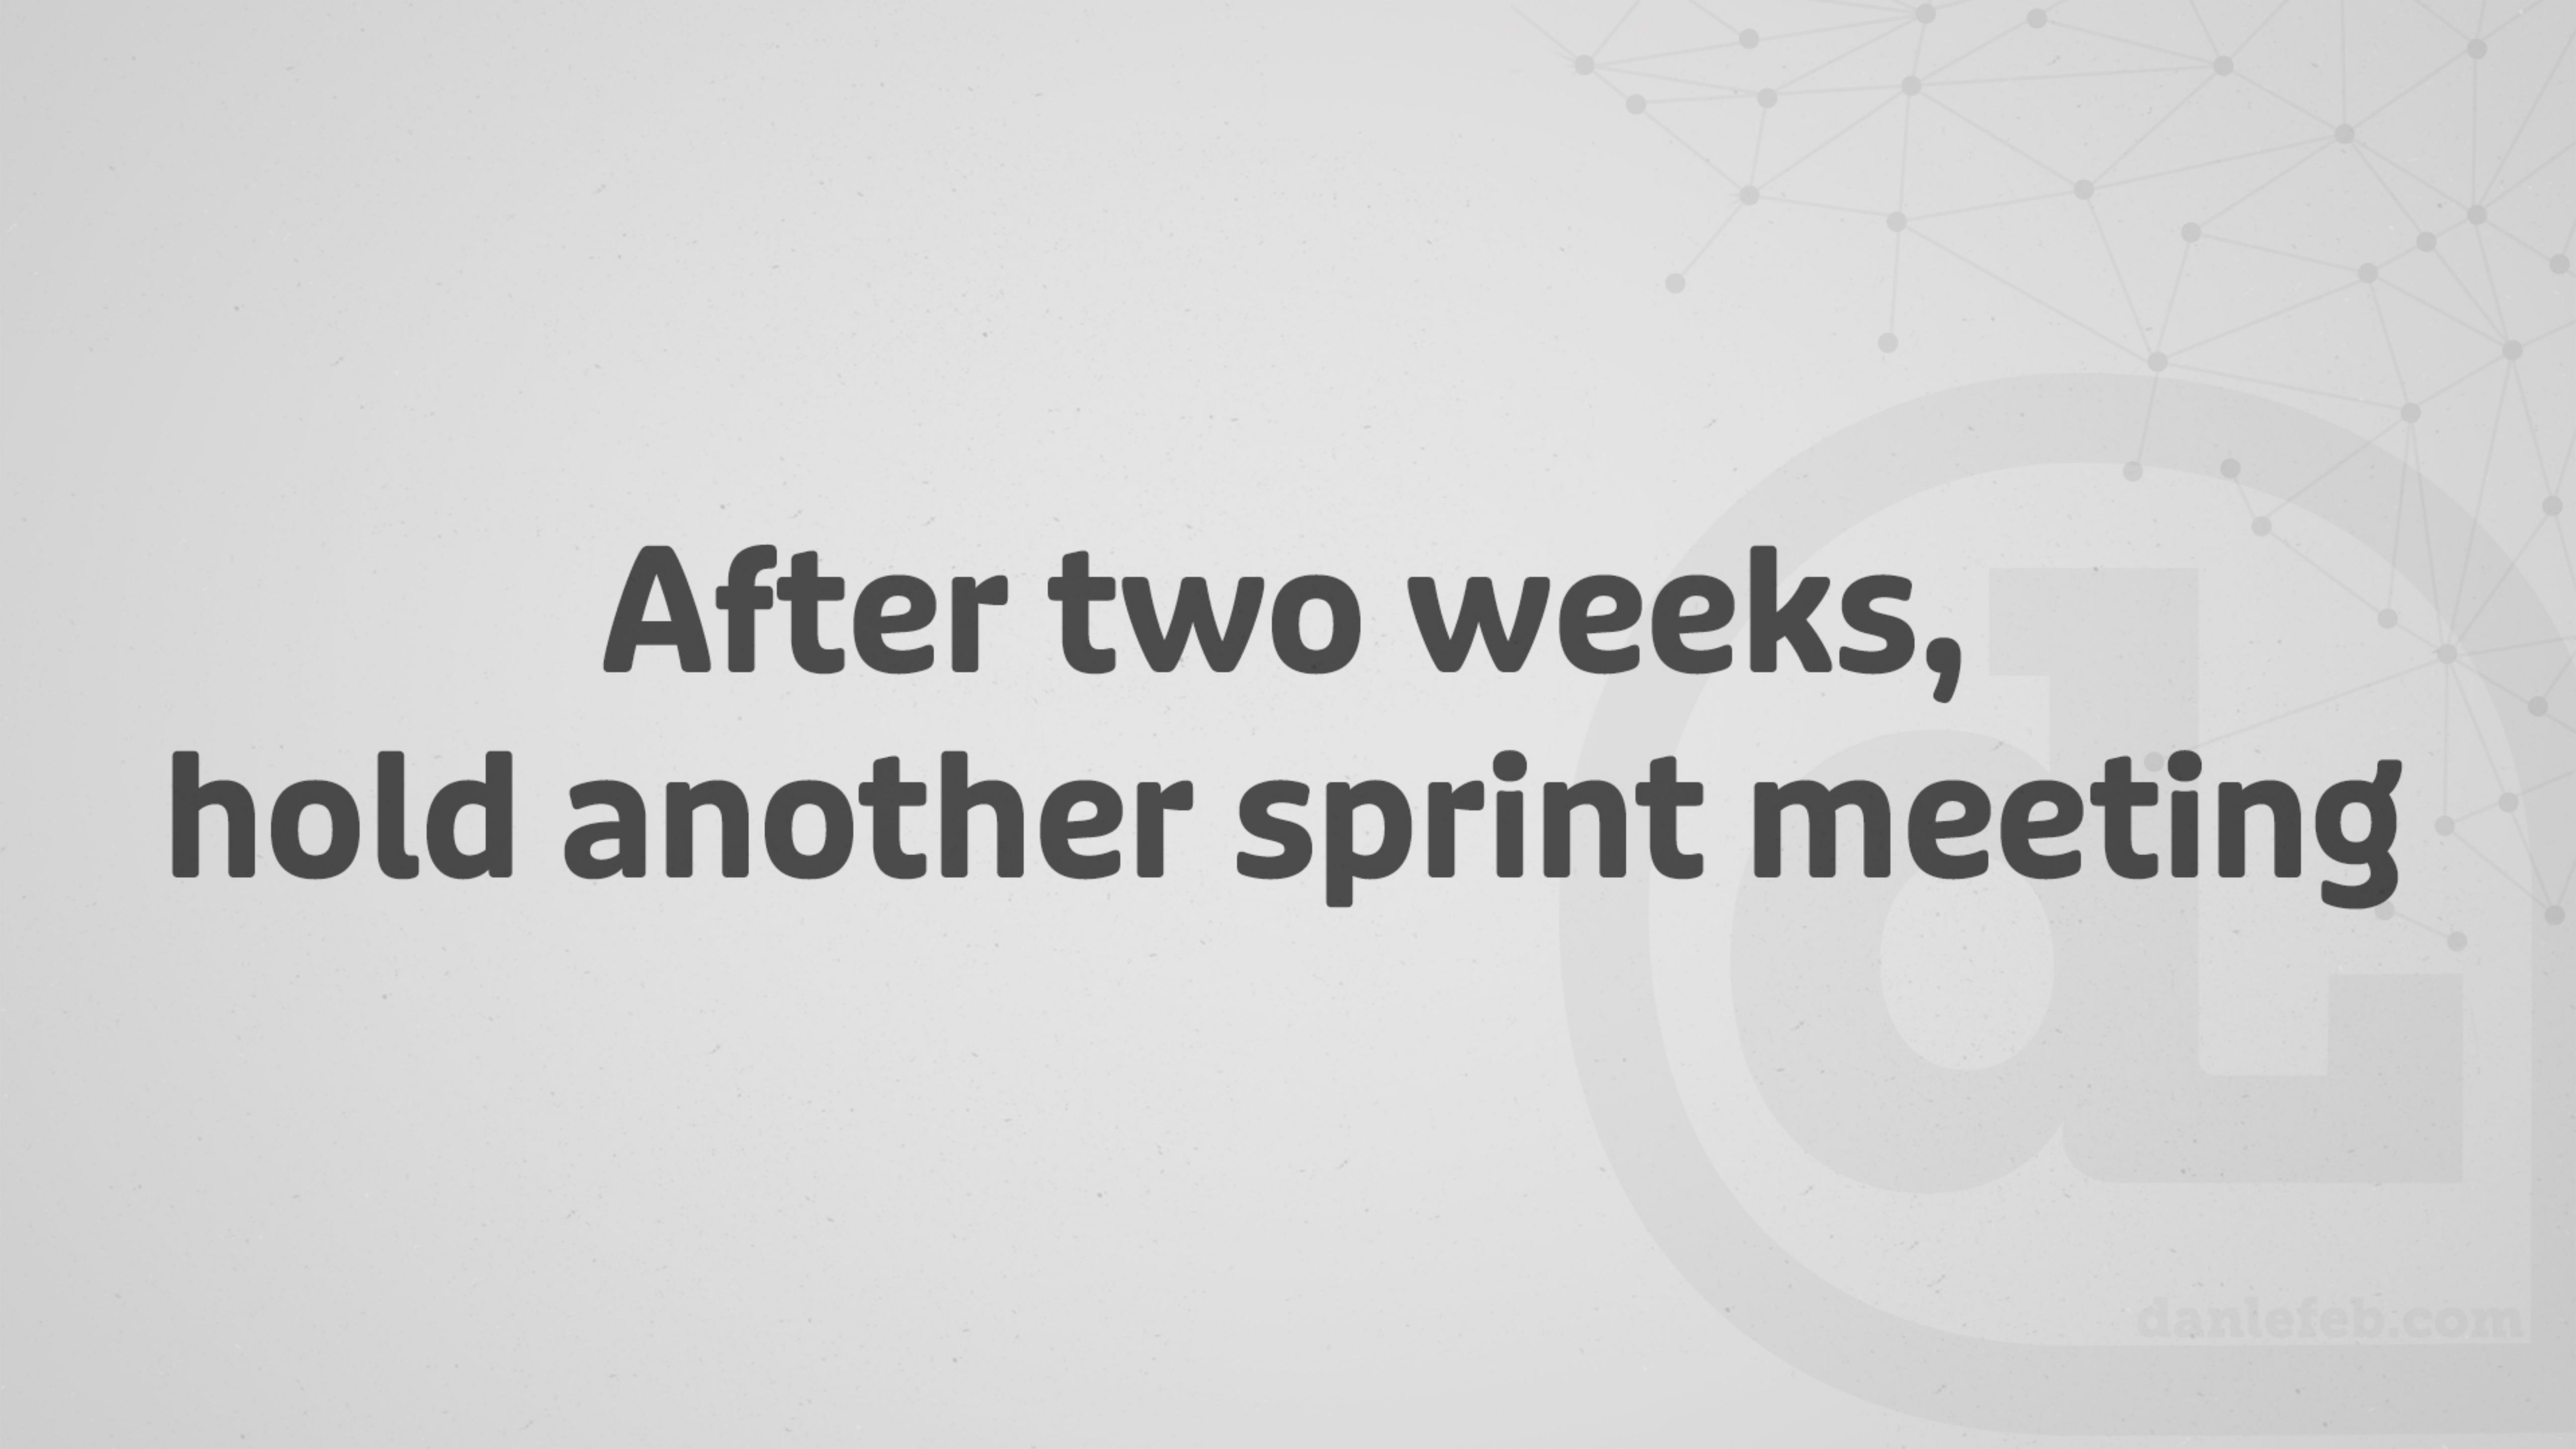

Sprint workflow example

Sprint workflow example

After two weeks,
hold another sprint meeting

Sprint meeting example

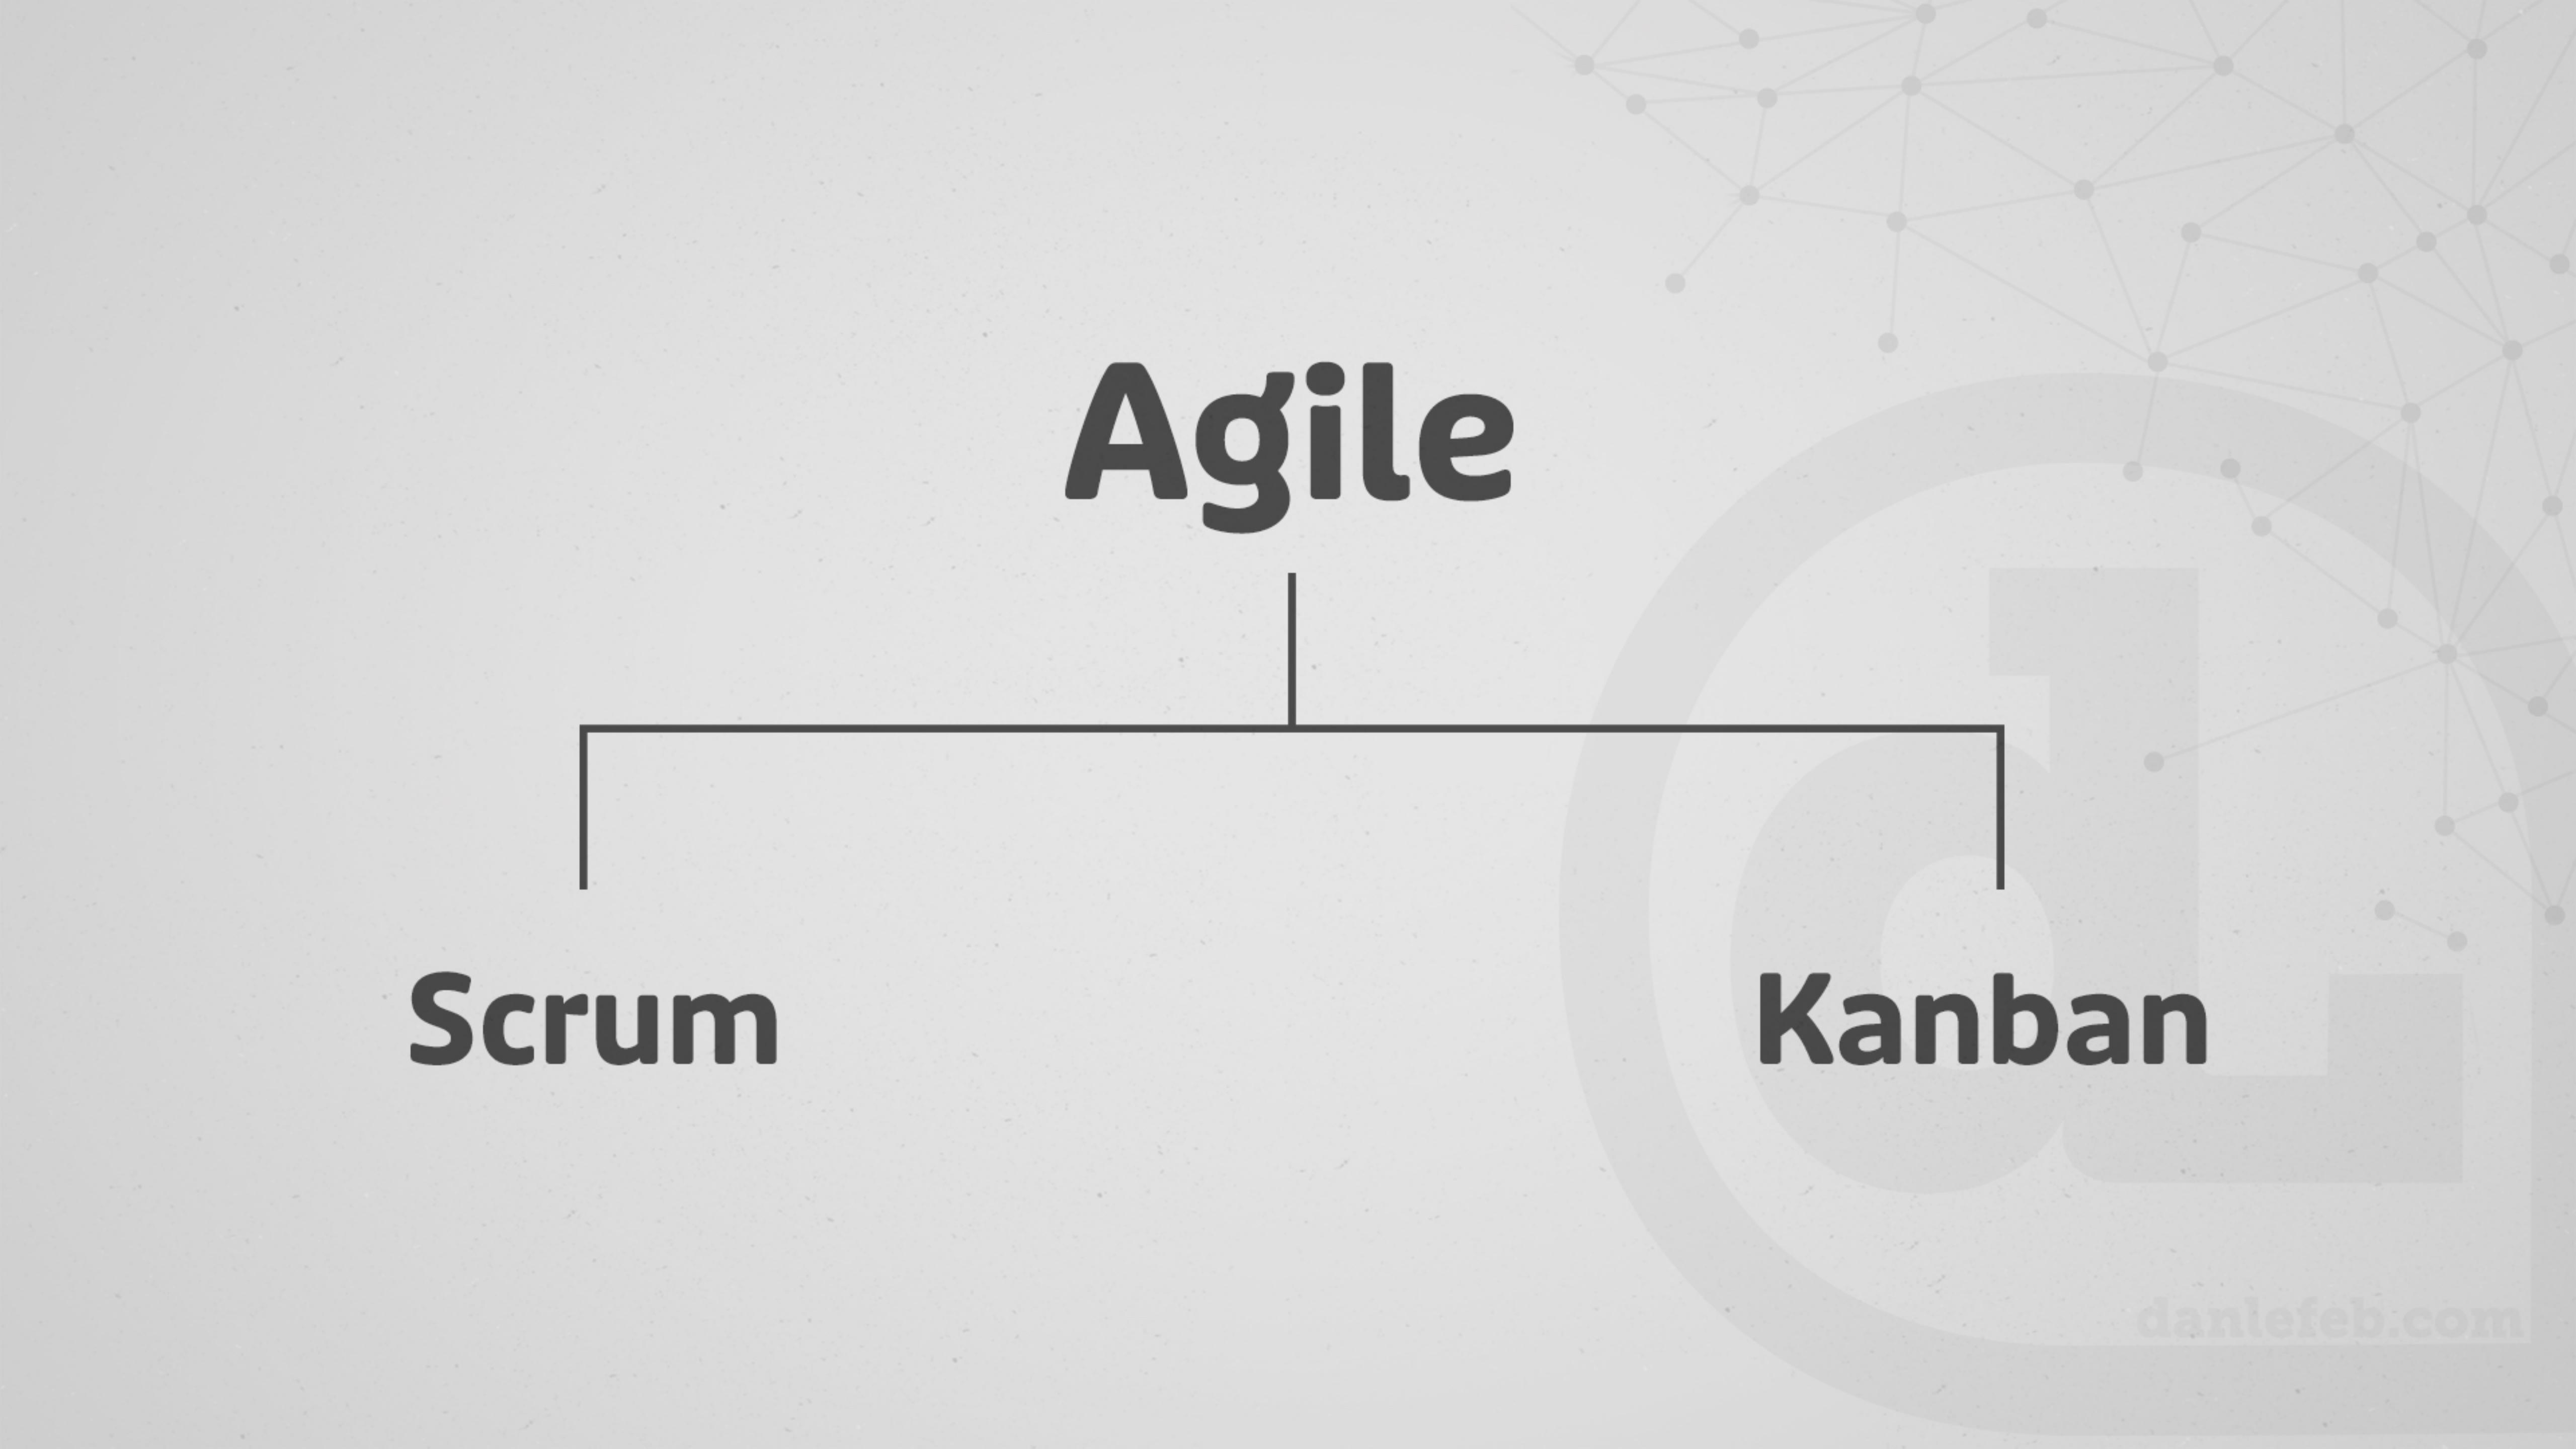

- Start by discussing last sprint
- What went well?
- What didn't go well?
- What can we do better next sprint?
- Discuss and agree on the work to be completed in the next sprint

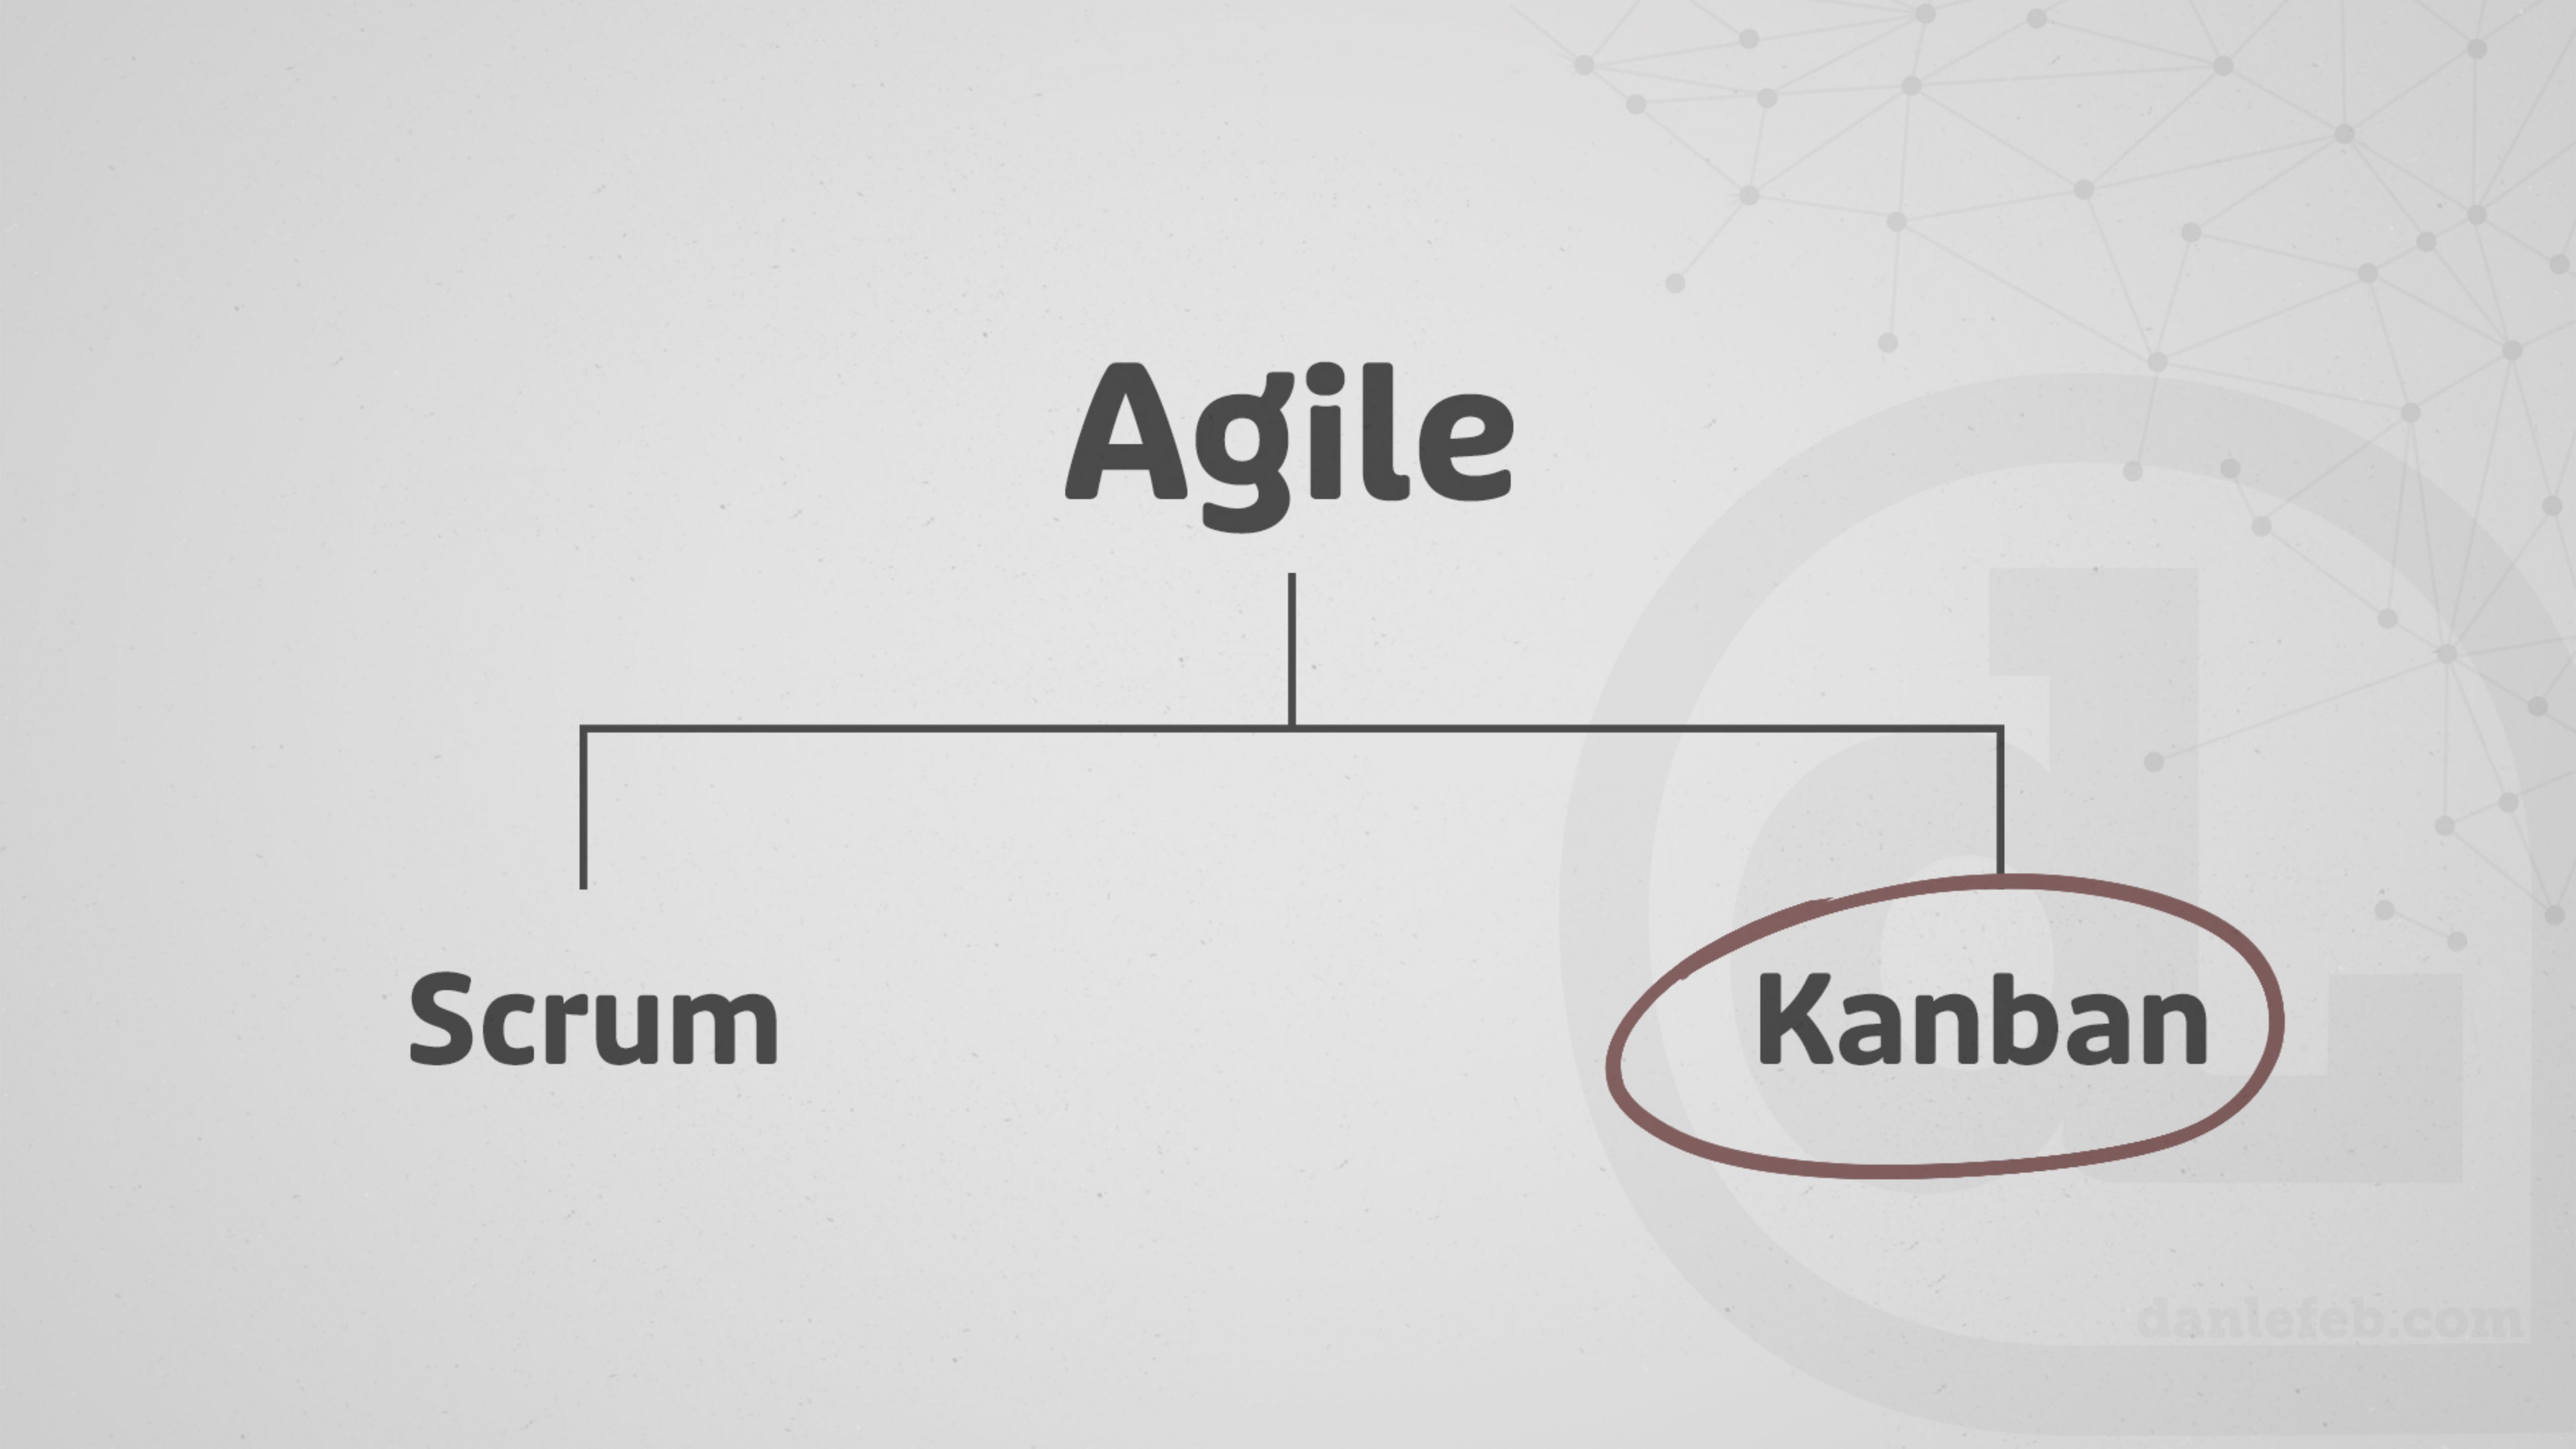

Agile

Scrum

Kanban

Agile

Scrum

Kanban

Kanban workflow example

Kanban workflow example

Kanban workflow example

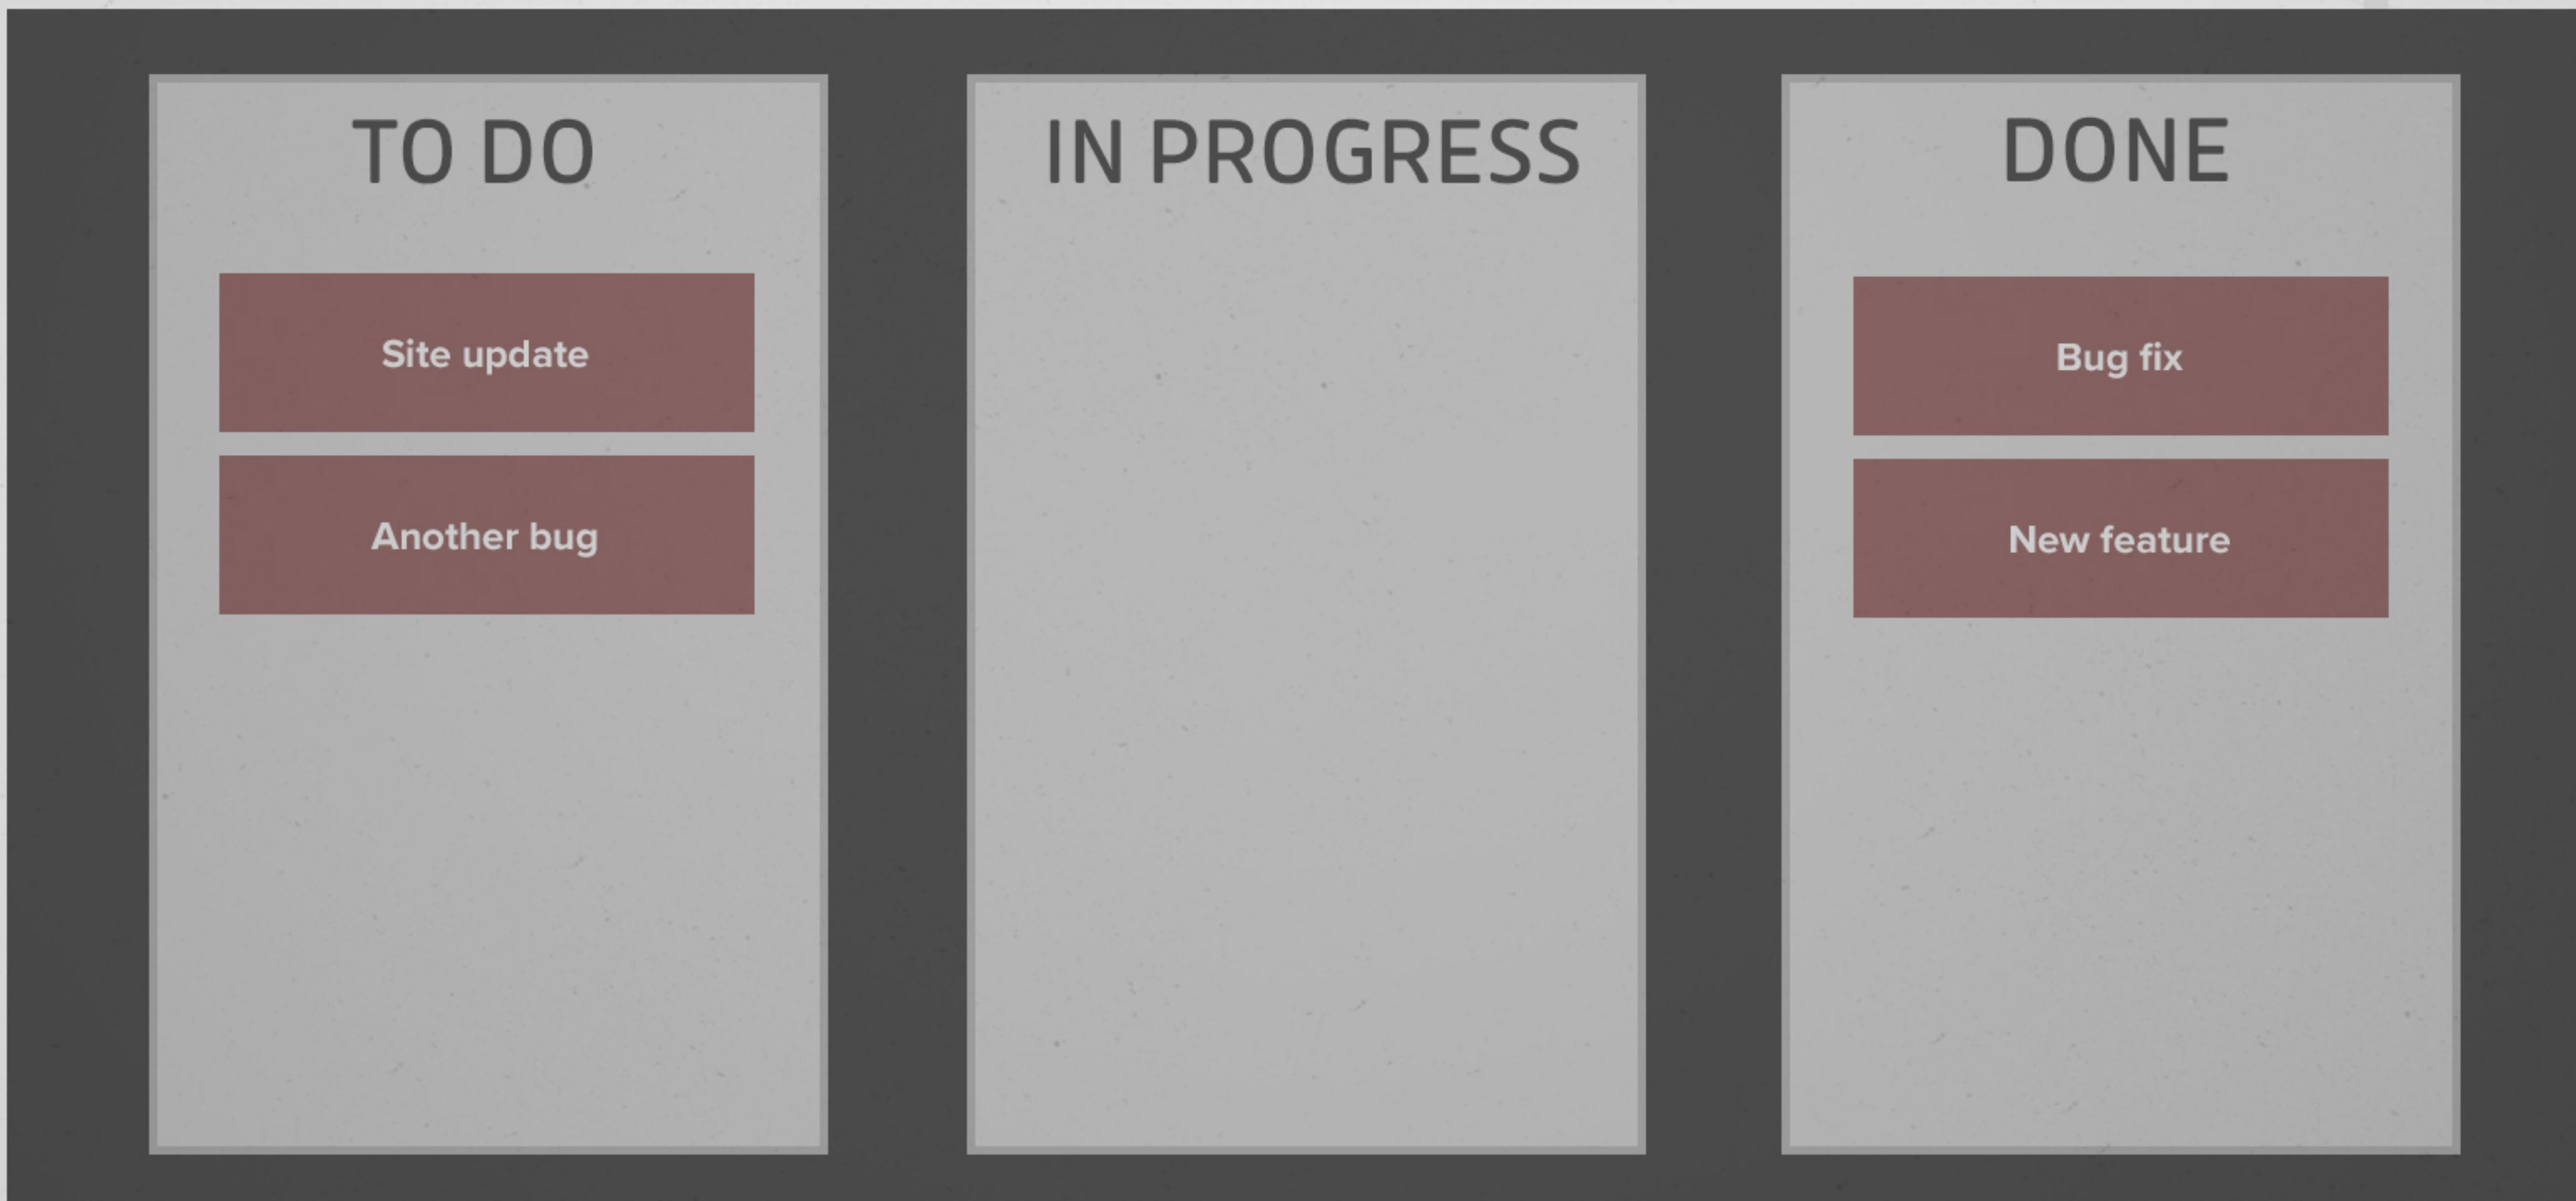

Kanban workflow example

Kanban workflow example

Kanban workflow example

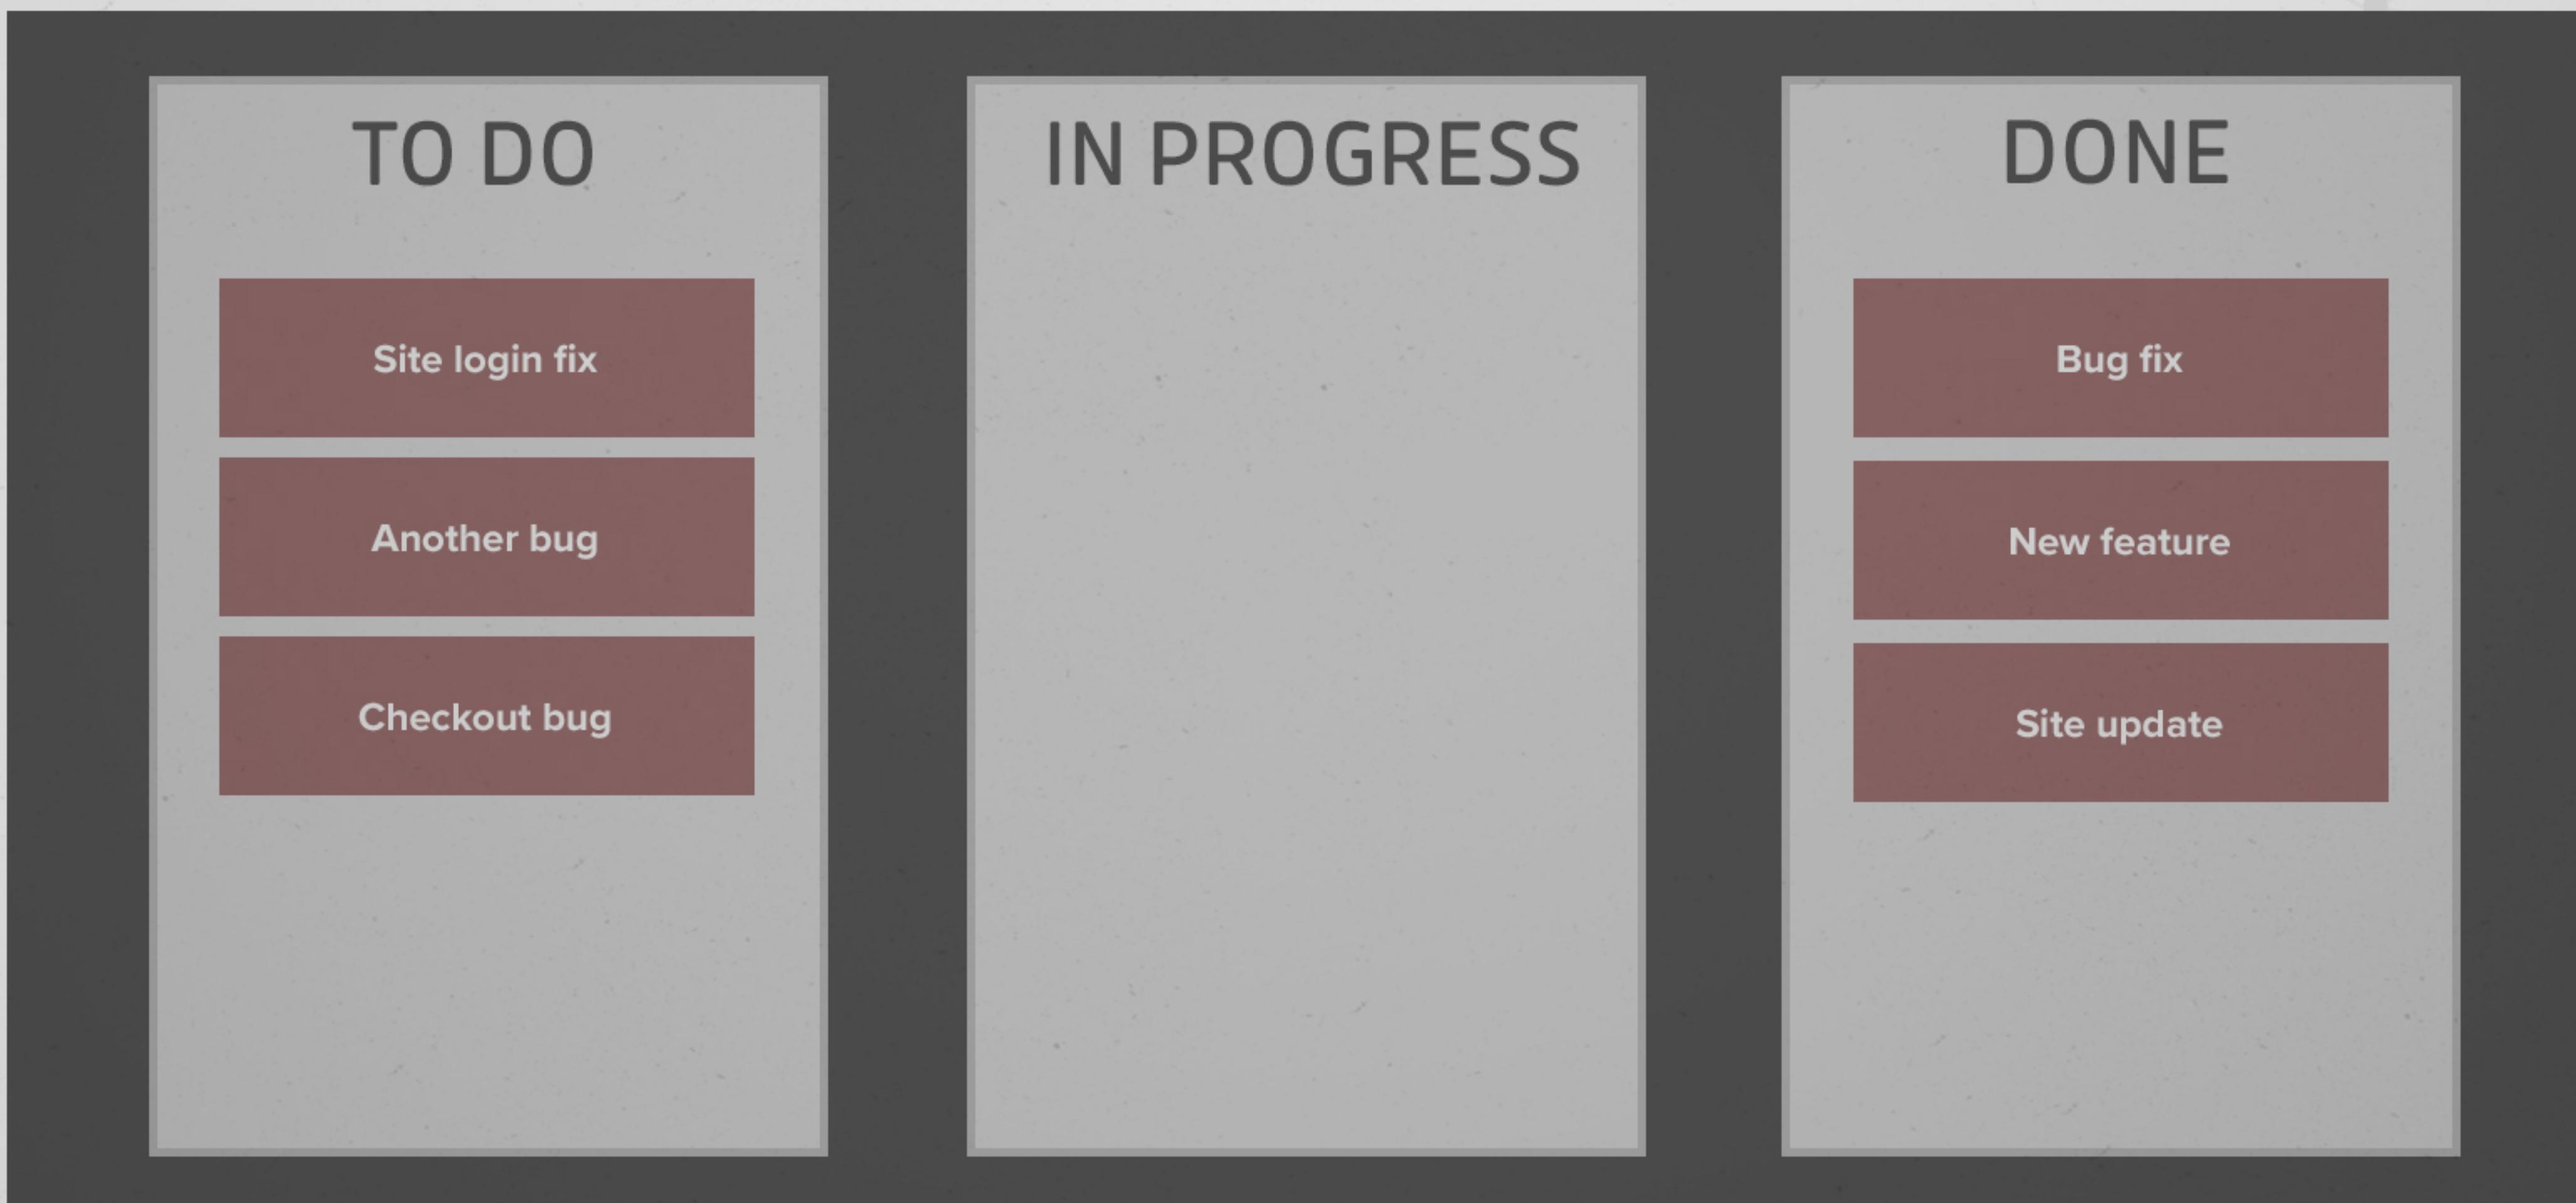

Kanban workflow example

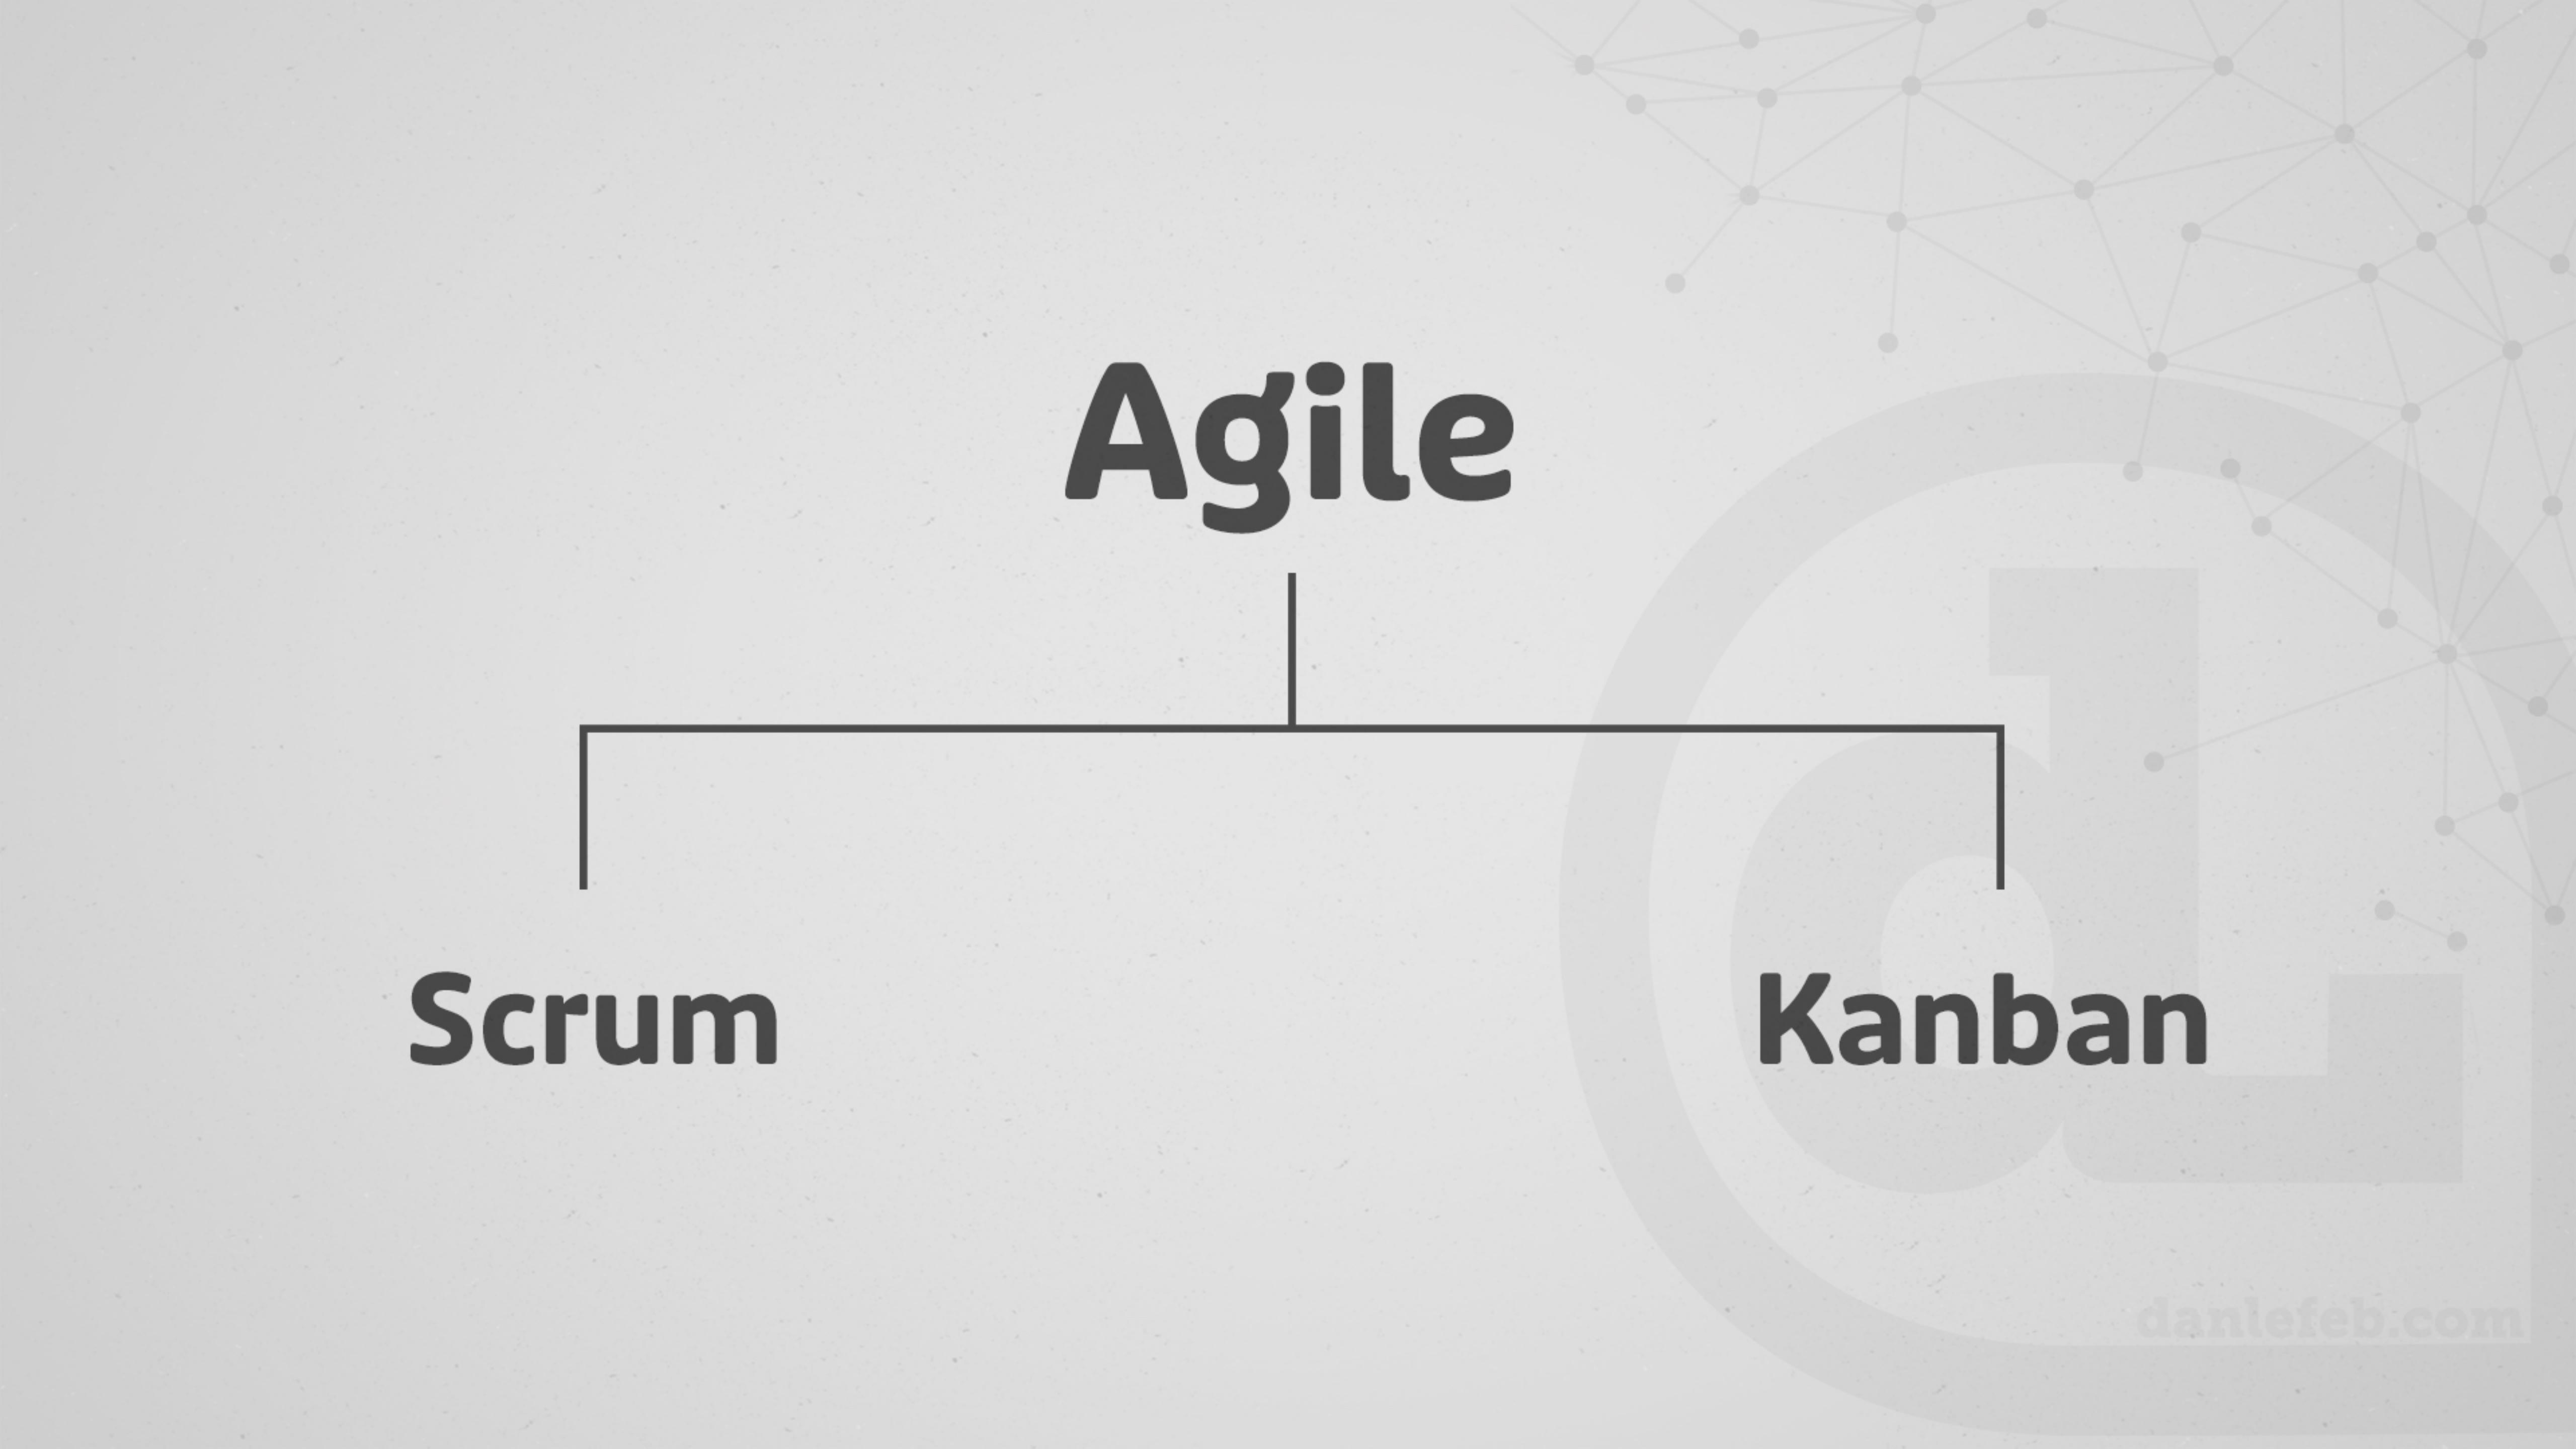

Kanban workflow example

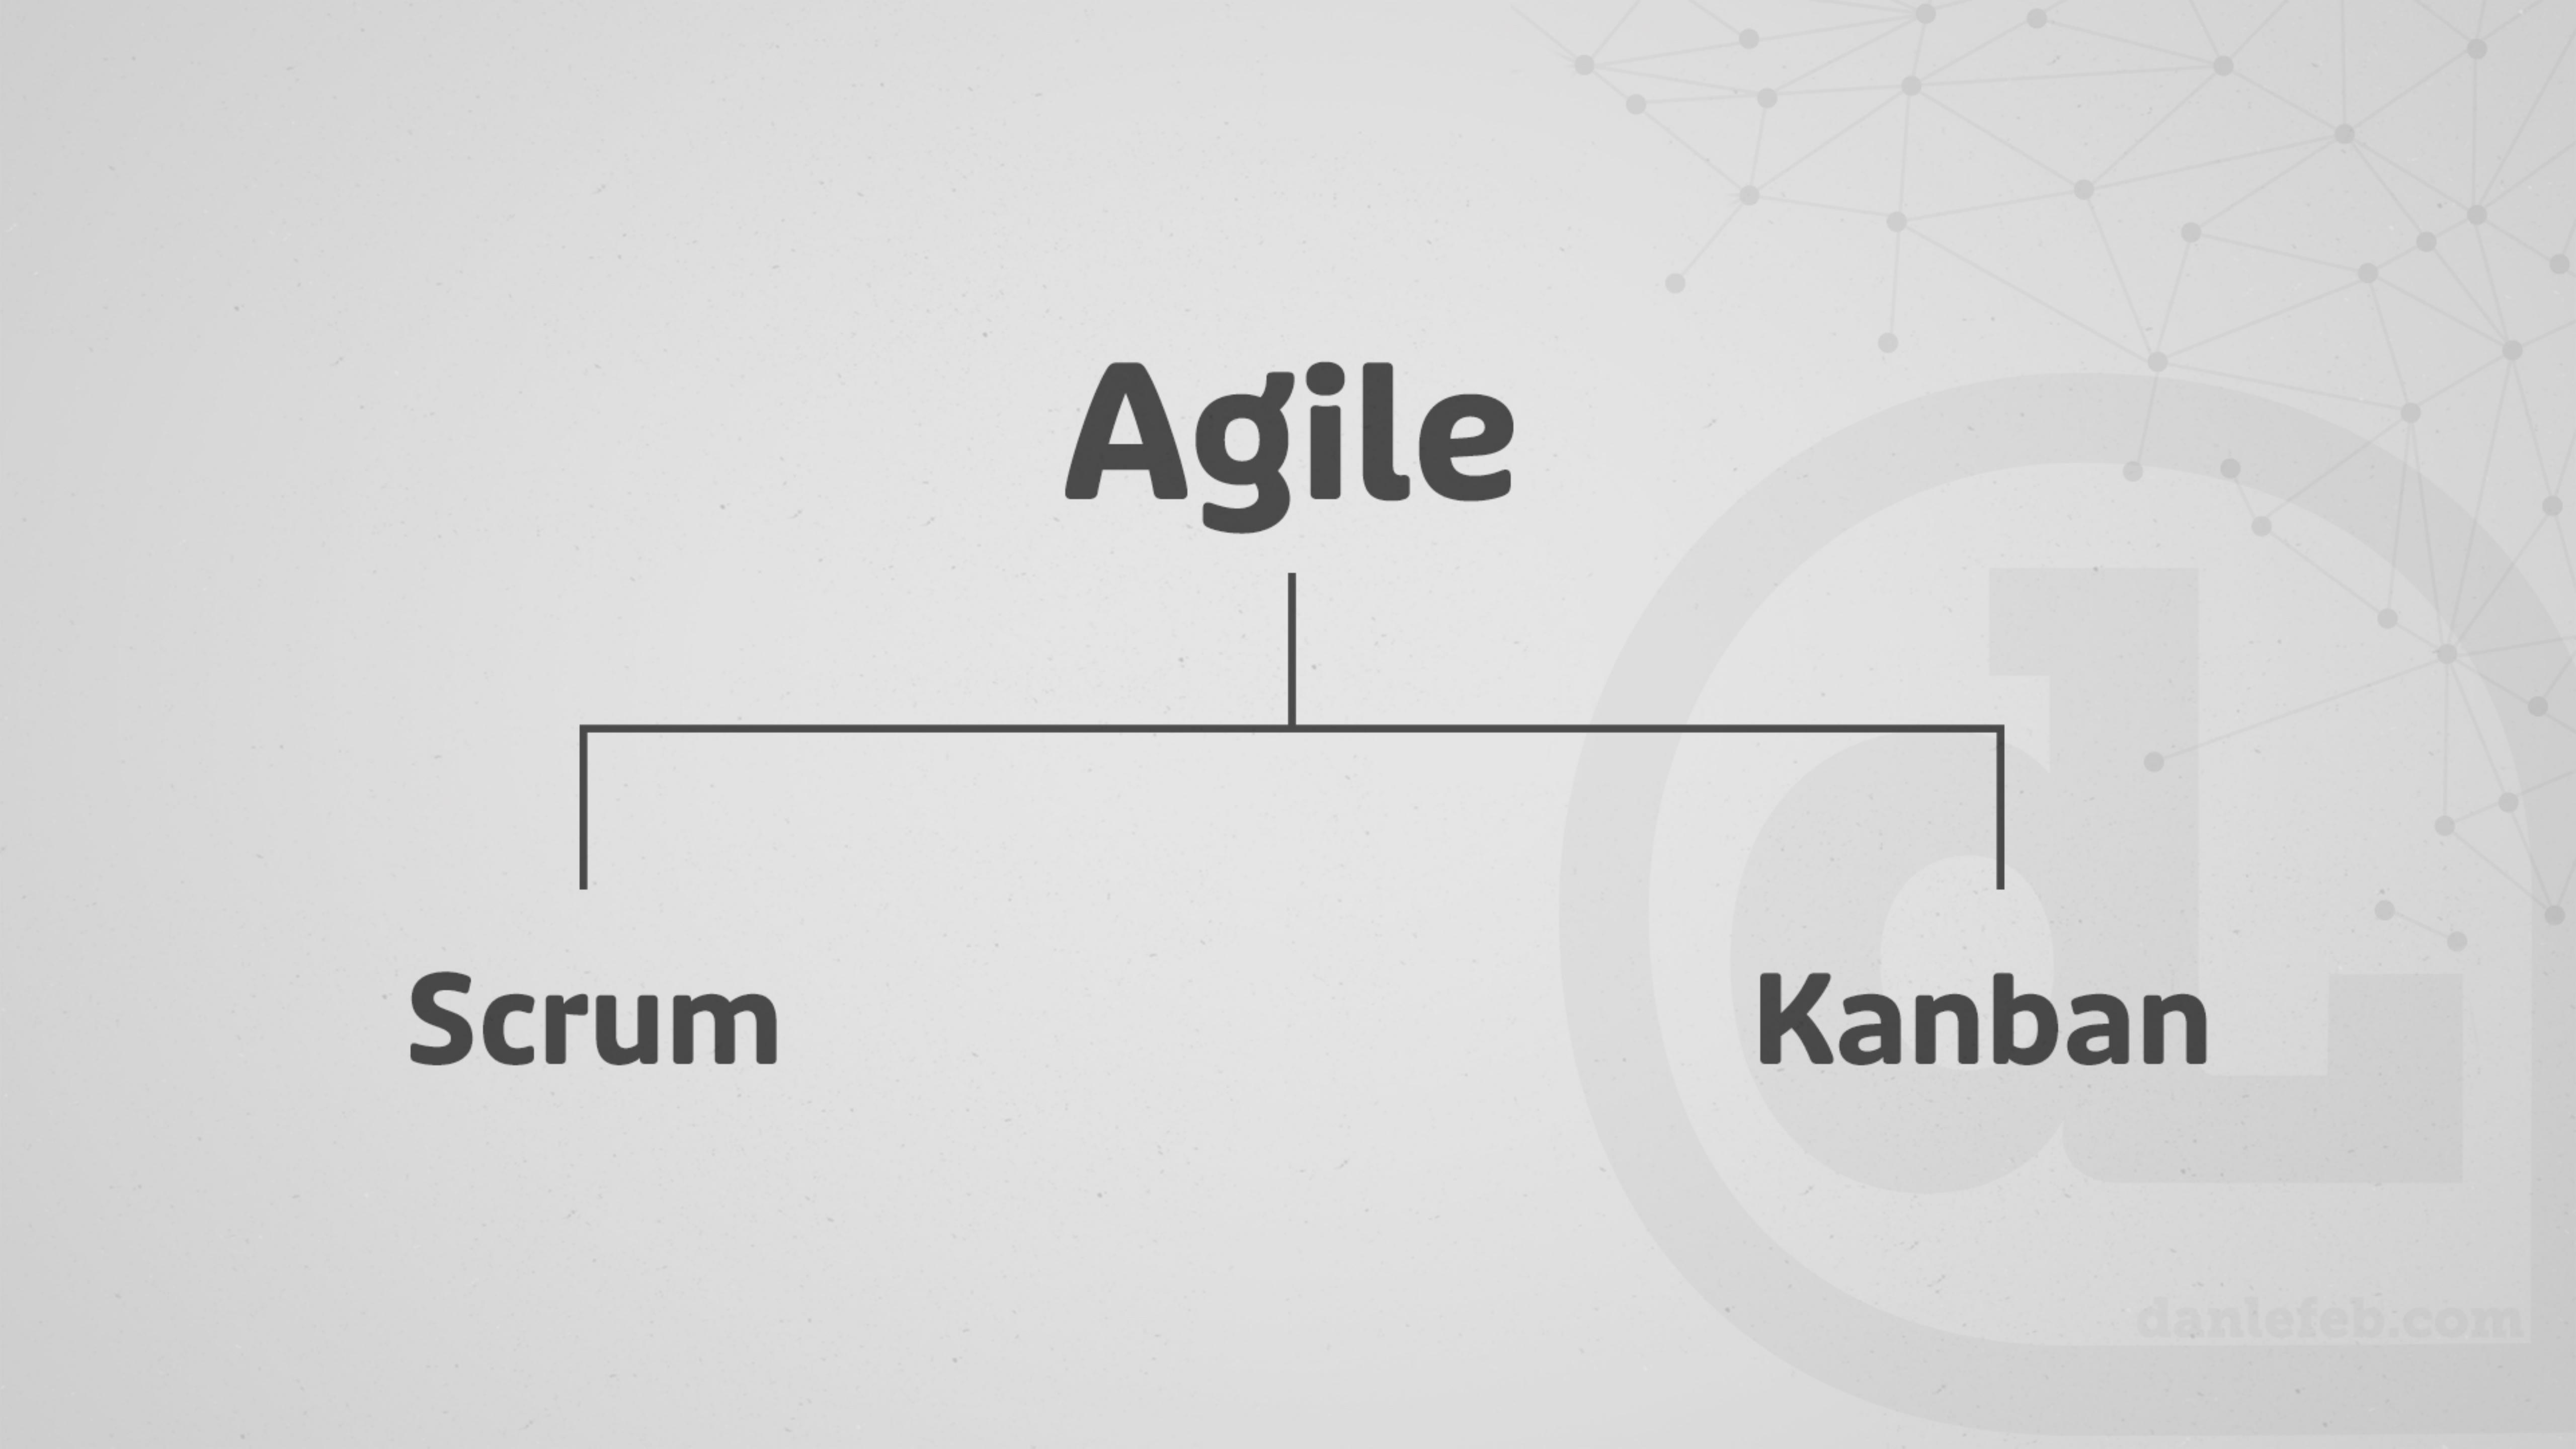

Kanban workflow example

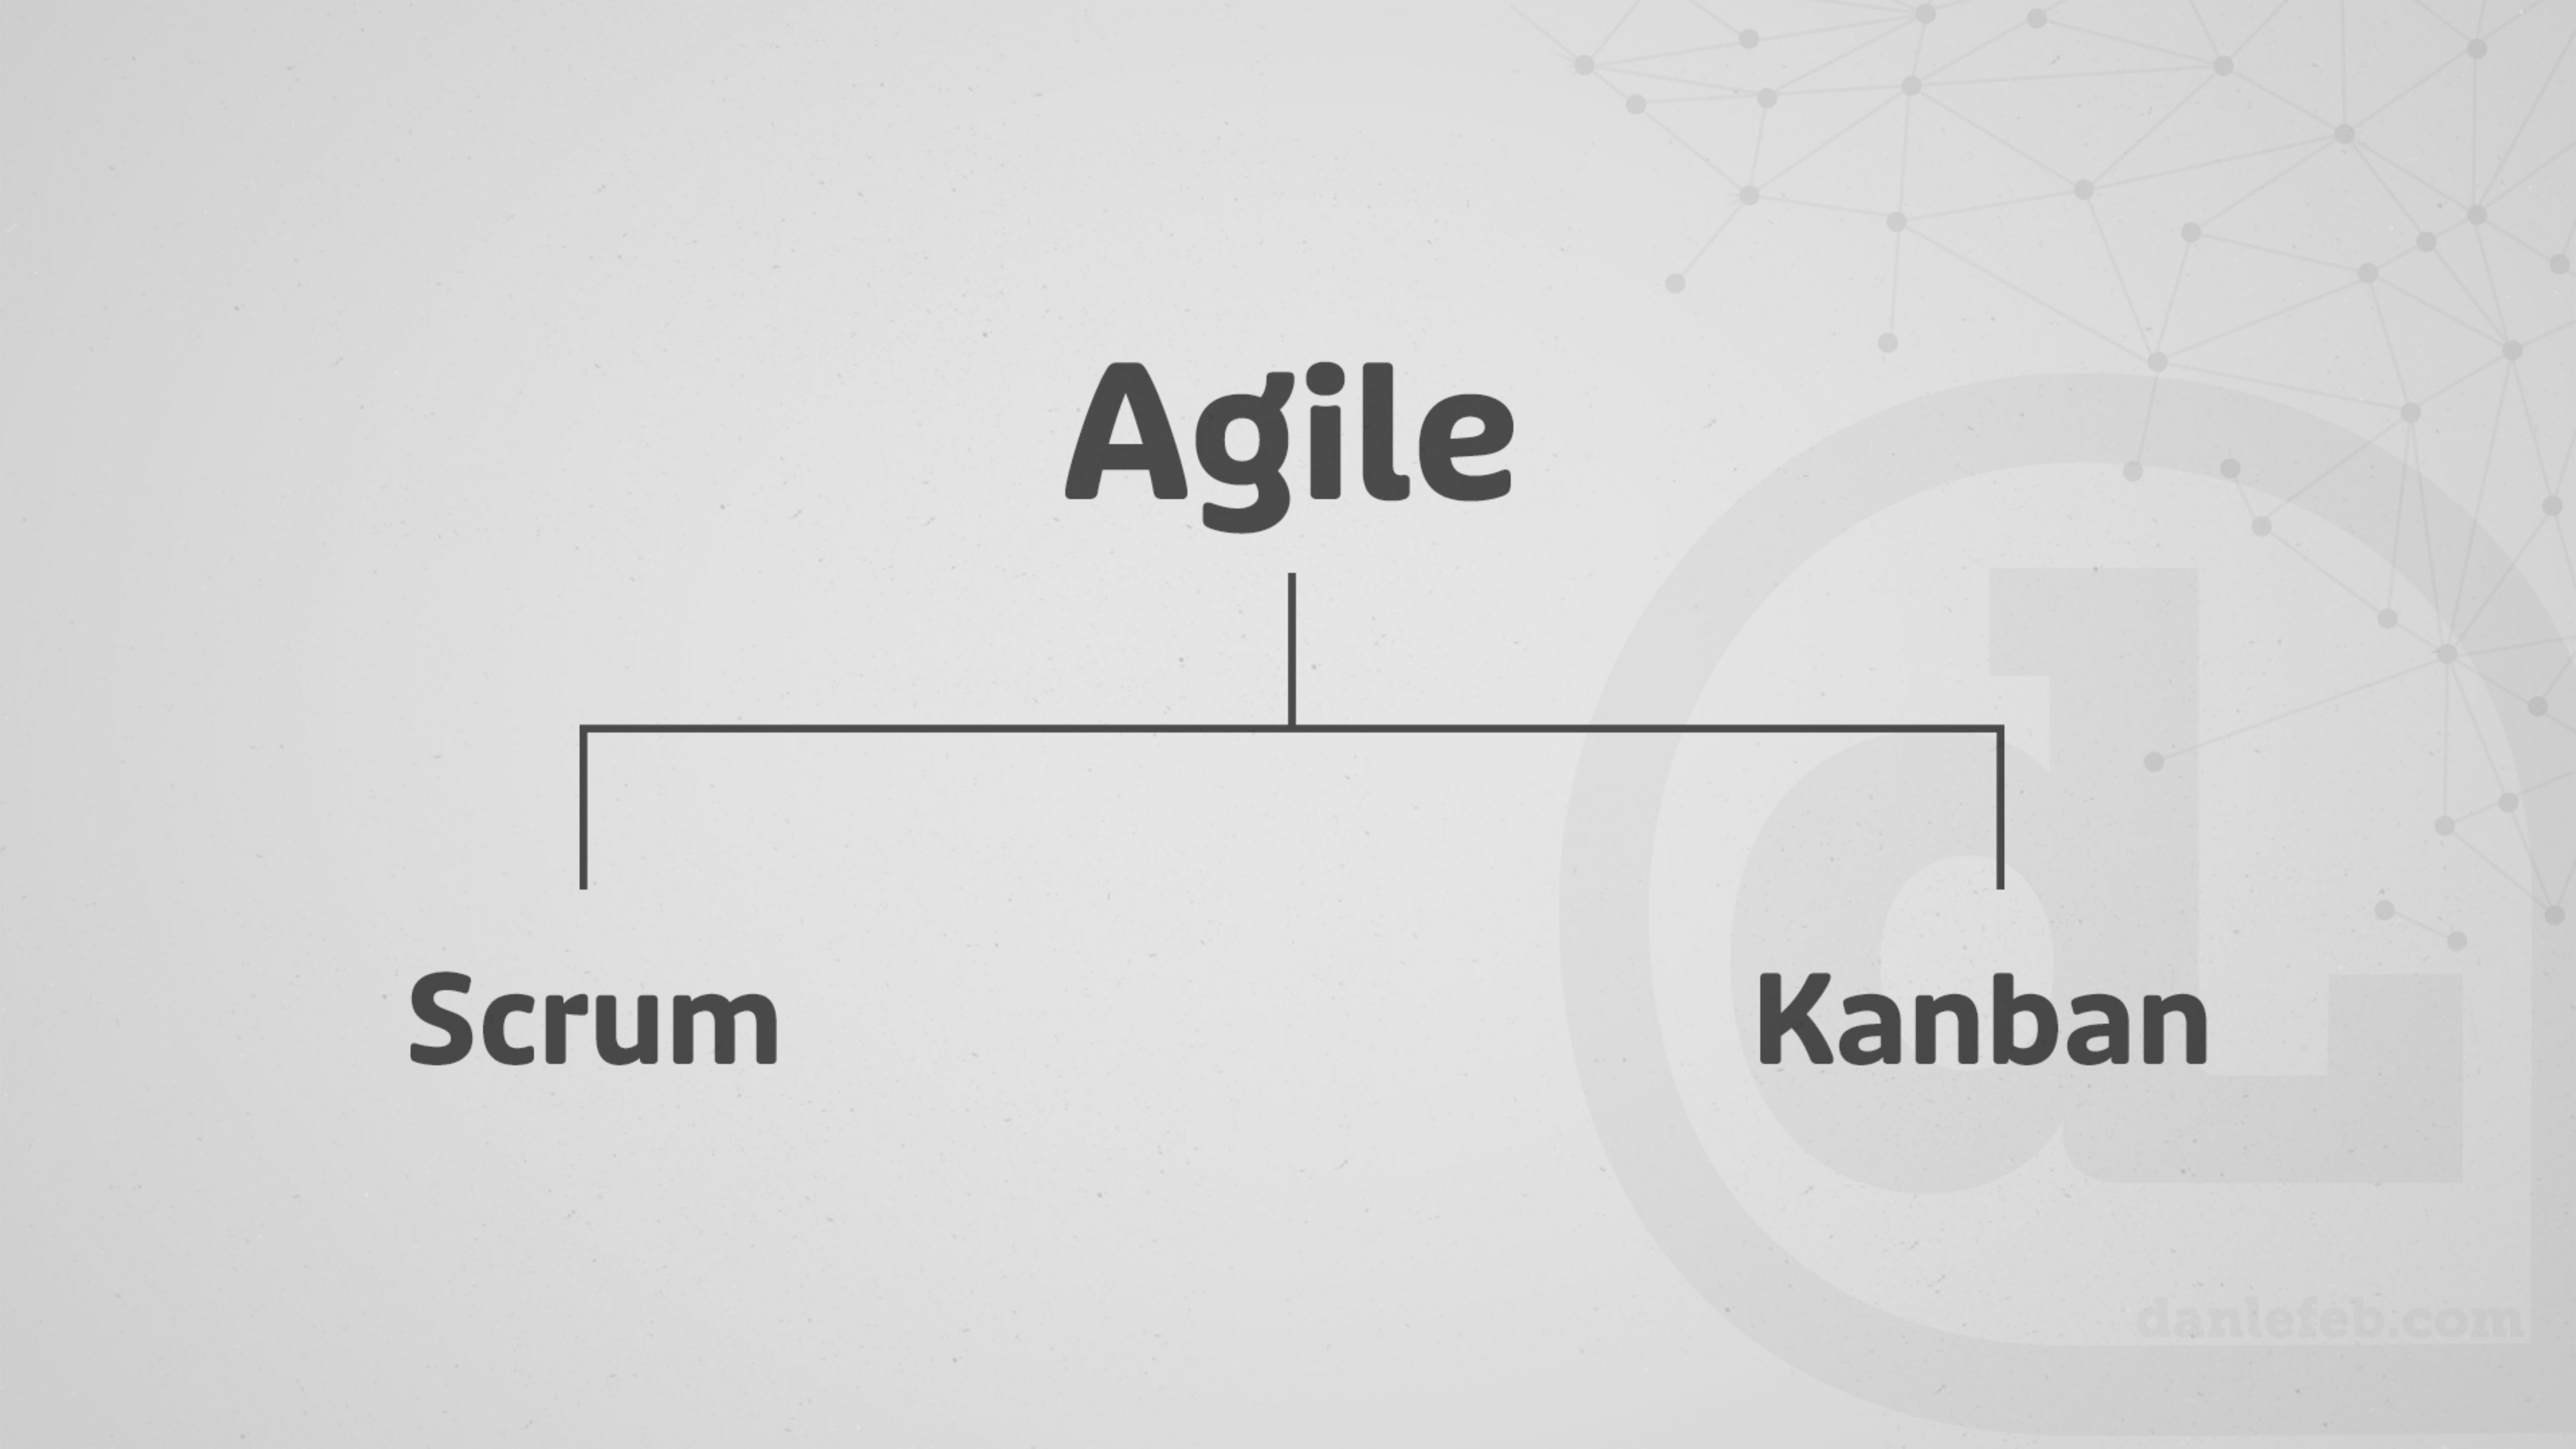

Agile

Scrum

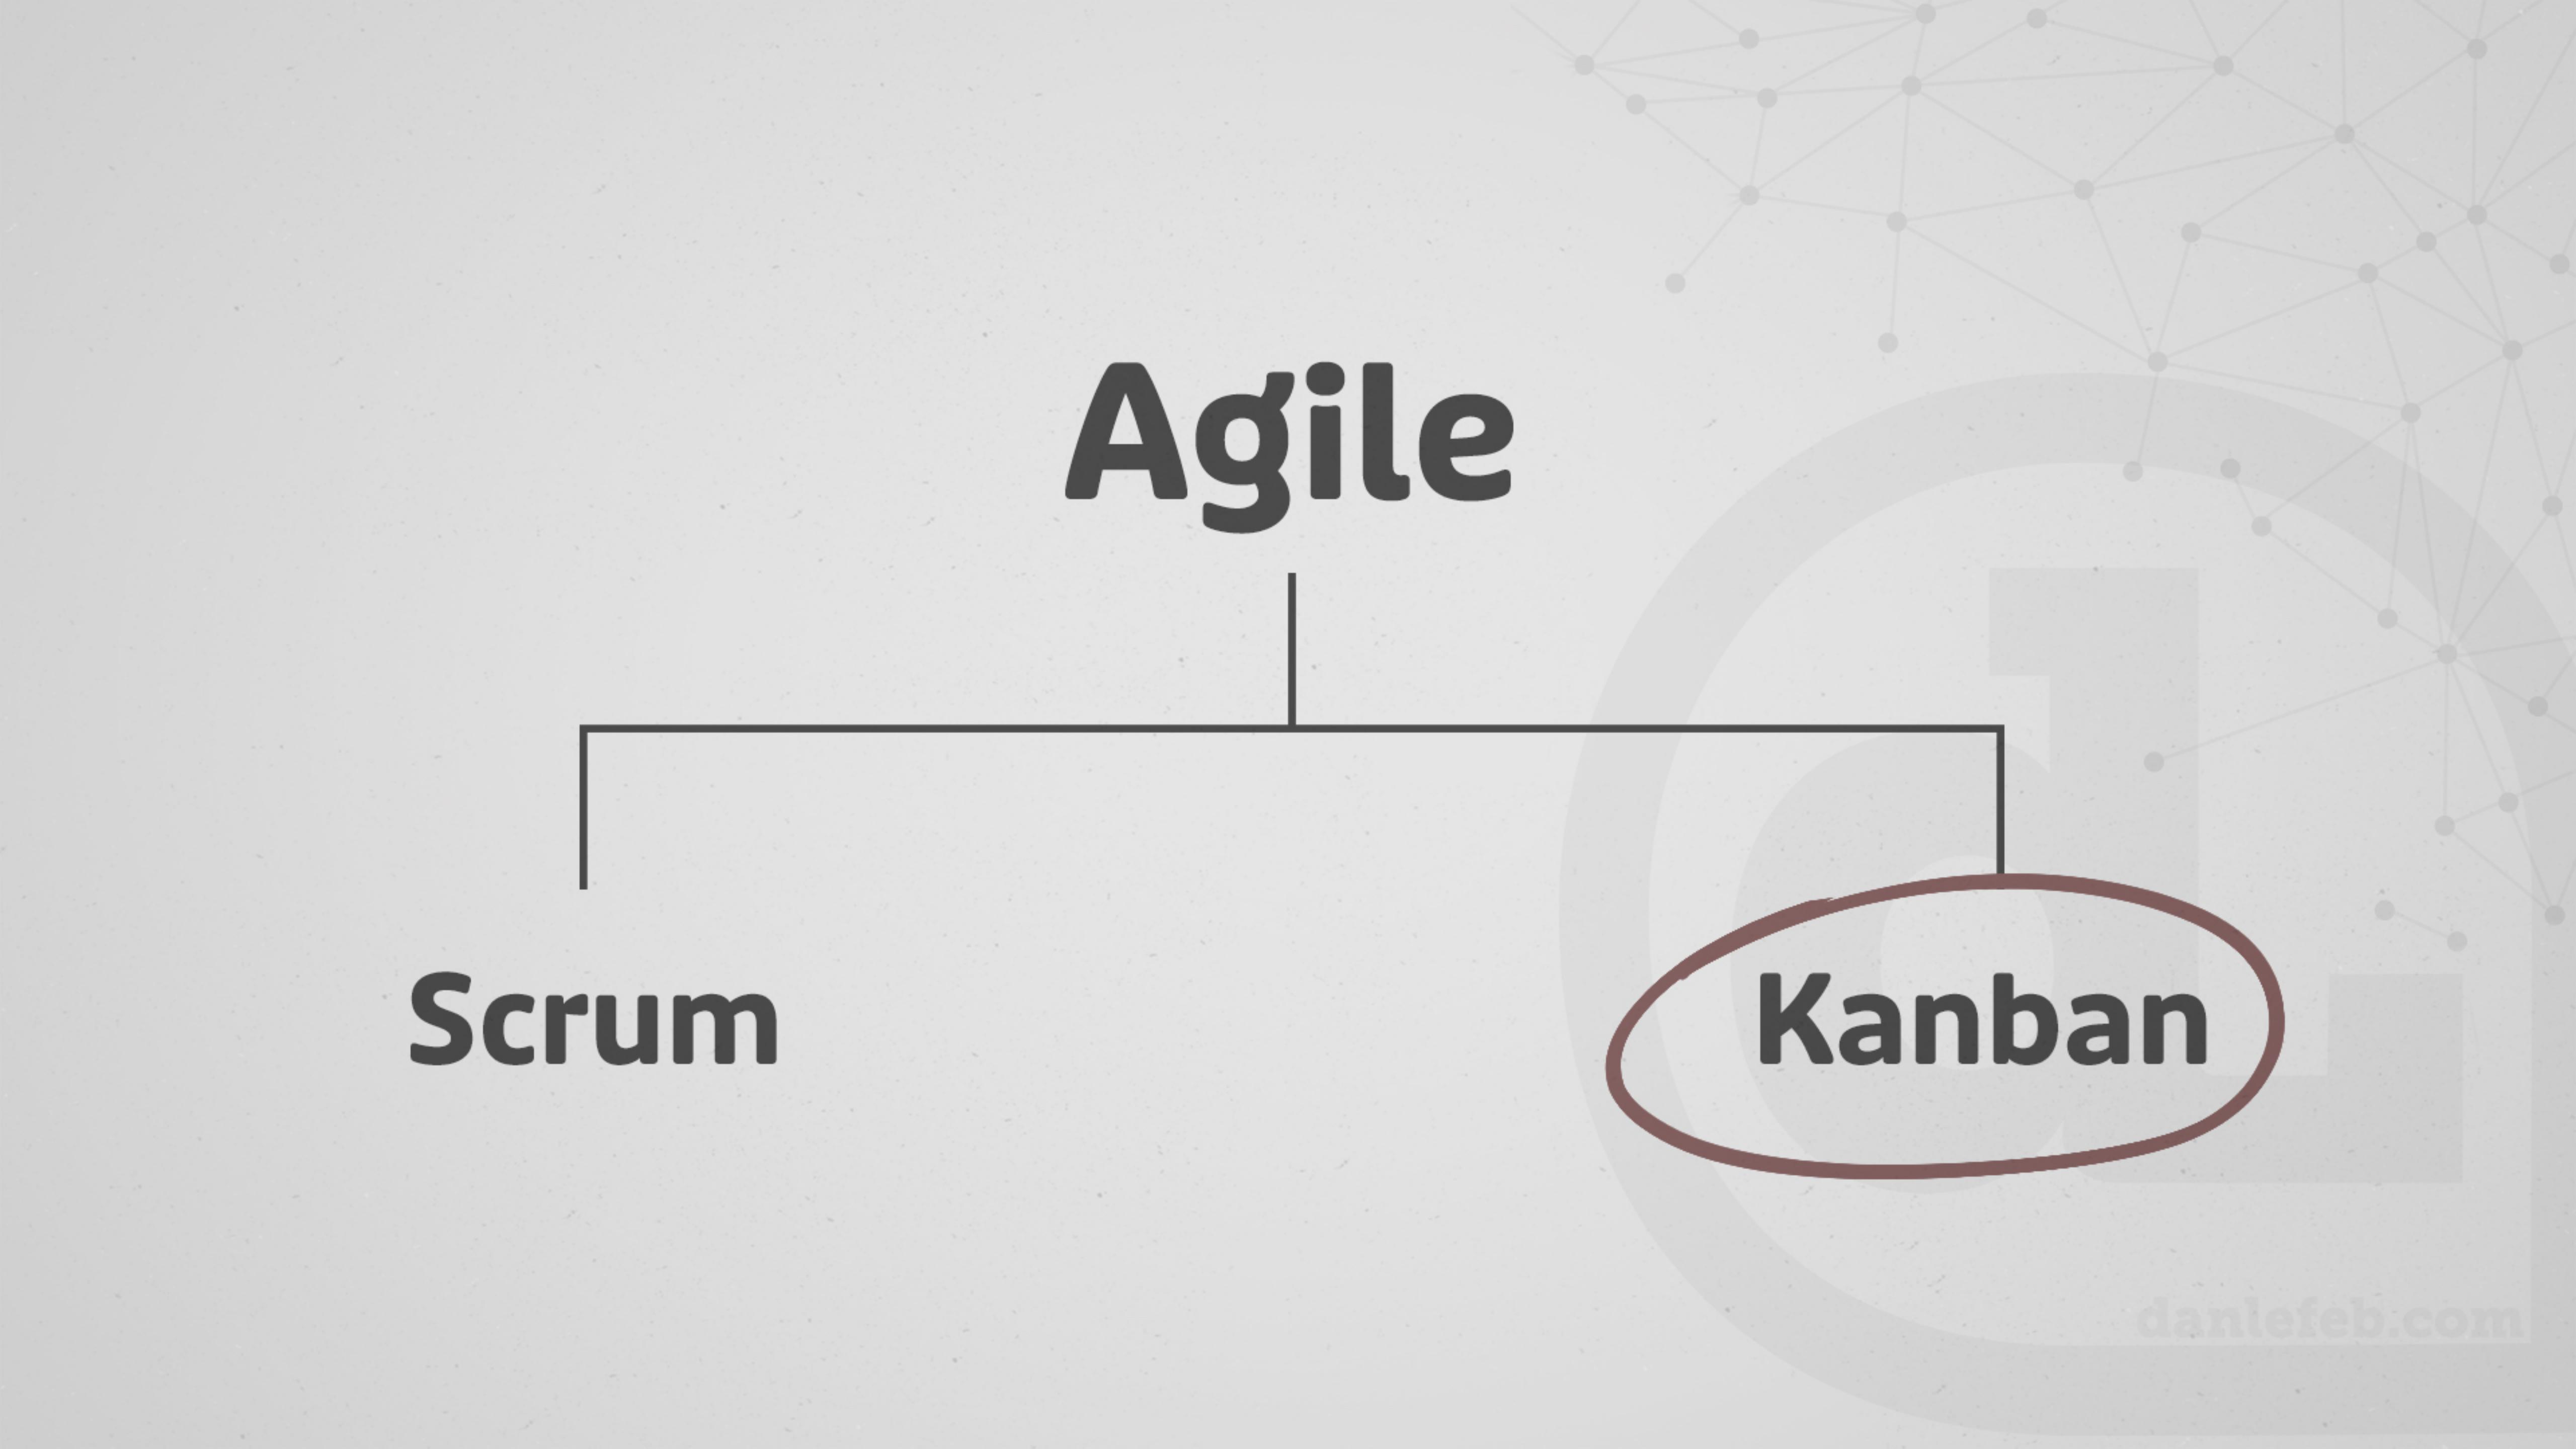

Kanban

Agile

Kanban

Agile

Scrum

Kanban

Stand-up meeting

A quick meeting where each team member explains what was accomplished yesterday and the work they intend to do today.

Any roadblocks or issues that arose are discussed.